Oil Baron Drops Tax Reduction Suits

COUNTY IN FIVE YEAR VICTORY

$85,000 Demands For New Assessments on Petrol Property Abandoned

1916 CASES GO BEFORE STATE SUPREME COURT

Local Officials Express No Surprise, But Tell Relief at Action

Permanent cessation of legal hostilities between the Birch Oil company and the county of Orange, coincident with the celebration of another armistice, was the interpretation placed today upon action by the oil company in dismissing all of its five pending tax suits against the county, trial of which had been scheduled to start in Superior Judge R. Y. Williams' court here at 10 a.m. today.

On the eve of a scheduled three-weeks' court battle involving tax reduction demands aggregating approximately $85,000 for the five years of 1918 to 1922, inclusive, the Birch company withdrew its suits. When the cases came to trial today a stipulation for dismissal was filed by Attorney's Woodruff and Shoemaker, Los Angeles counsel for A. Otis Birch, asserted "oil baron."

Discrimination Charged
Birch's attorneys notified District Attorney L. A. West, counsel for the county, Saturday that the suits would be dropped, this being the first intimation that the oil company had given up its perennial fight against tax assessments on its twenty-acre holdings in the Brea oil field.

Since 1916 these suits have been instituted regularly each year, protesting against the tax assessment and demanding reductions in its tax levy, ranging from $14,000 to $19,000 in each case. Birch's protests were based on charges of alleged discrimination and arbitrary methods of taxation.

Decisions Upheld
The suits of 1916 and 1917, both decided against Birch in appeals to the state supreme court, were followed by the filing of suits covering the successful five years. The only victory gave five years. The only victory in the entire history of its litigation with the county was when Superior Judge West issued a writ of review preventing the county from increasing Birch's tax assessment after the usual decrease had been sought. This decision was appealed by the county and Birch again won before the supreme court, which sustained Judge West's action. This case covered the tax assessment for 1921-2.

Preparations were being made for a long and stubborn fight over the consolidated five actions, trial of which was expected to start today.

Officials Hail Move
Word of the Birch company's abandonment of its efforts to secure the reductions was received with relief by county officials, who, however, expressed no surprise at the announcement.

"It will save us a lot of trouble," remarked County Assessor James Sleeper, whose assessments have been the object of attack by the

Scientists Face New Puzzle As Grave of Early Man Is Found

At the top is the crypt whence the aboriginal Americans, living perhaps 25,000 years ago, were exhumed. At the bottom is the giant skull of the "Santa Barbara Man," himself.

Experts Hold Evolution Theory Supported By Santa Barbara Discovery

BY JACK JUNGMEYER
NEA Service Writer

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Nov. 13.—Timing his posthumous re-appearance to jibe with efforts in several states to squelch the teaching of human evolution, the "Santa Barbara Man" emerges from his 25,000-year sleep to level a stony-eyed challenge at these disputants.

John P. Harrington, Smithsonian archeologist, unearthed him here a few days since, buried from time immemorial under what was recently the courtyard of a fashionable hotel.

About all that is preserved of "Homo Barbarensis" is his thick, low-browed and prognathous-jawed skull. But this is sufficient for scientists to envisage the whole creature as he once roamed among his prehistoric kind. A sub-man, just above the ape, by all the bony evidence.

Indian Progenitor?
Considered the most significant archeological find of years, the skull seems to provide another of those "missing links" long sought and occasionally accidentally found to bolster the theory of man's transmutation from Beast to Babbitt.

Pending more careful study, this primitive is believed to be the progenitor of the American Indian and the cousin of those races which roamed the glacial steppes of Europe when the world was young.

And so that Mr. Barbarensis, greatest of American grandfathers, may not have to bear alone the scrutiny of scientists and the eventual curious gaze of the world's young folk, his wife has come up out of the crypt with him.

Her Mouth Open.
Her skull lay beside his, differing just enough to be pronounced female by the exhumers. Her jaws remain open, widely distended, as if with prodigious scream she sought to fortify her mate from that terror which may have laid them down to become the riddle of another age.

Both skulls are extraordinarily heavy—nearly twice as thick of cranium as any present-day man. In profile they show no forehead whatever.

The slope from frontal bone to the back of the head is more pronounced.

HALT BATTLE MELLON PLAN UNDER FIRE OF SOLONS

Charges of Fraud In Attendance Race "Hushed" Up By Kansas Man
Question Will Test Strength of President In Coming Session

(By United Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—The battle of the Bible classes simmered down to a mere skirmish today. The campaign of publicity announced by reconnaissance officers sent west by the world's largest class, in Kansas City, against the Long Beach Bible students, claiming the California city attendance figures had been padded, was called off without explanation.

Yesterday J. W. Lindentel, a member of the Kansas City Bible class, opened a campaign to "show the Long Beach class is a 'political machine' that has announced thousands more in attendance than twenty Burns detectives could count, and had violated the rules of the contest entered into by the two cities."

Today Lindentel said he didn't "want anything sensational" to appear, and professed a willingness to let the whole matter drop.

He had abandoned his plan of going before the Los Angeles Church federation with his complaint. "I would rather have lost today," Lindentel said. "We won the contest. We gave the affair enough publicity to show the Long Beach class padded its figures last Sunday by nearly 20,000, and we won the five weeks' contest by an overwhelming majority."

"I'm not going to continue seeking to confer with Dr. George P. Taubman, teacher of the Long Beach class," Lindentel continued. "Instead, I'm going to visit in the 'enemy' camp with friends I have there, and then go back home."

Lindentel denied Kansas City reports that he had been instructed to drop further discussion, saying that he acted on his own initiative in deciding the contest had received enough publicity.

TWO DIE AS WAGON AND AUTO CRASH

Machine Collides With Horse Drawn Vehicle on State Highway Near Fresno

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 13.—Two persons were killed and another perhaps fatally injured at dawn today when an automobile collided with a wagon on the state highway just south of Fresno.

The dead are Gertrude Baird, 30 years old, Fresno, and W. E. Warren, 1220 Brighton avenue, El Centro.

The injured man is Frank Staton, 26, Dinuba, skull fractured.

Warren was driving the automobile and the others were riding with him. According to police reports, the car crashed into the back of a wagon driven by A. Pistacchio of Sanger, which was going in the same direction. Pistacchio was held for questioning by the police. Both vehicles were wrecked.

FRANCE PLANS GERMAN DEBT CONFERENCE

(By United Press Leased Wire)
PARIS, Nov. 13.—France notified the reparations commission today she intended to propose a form of inquiry for the commission to make into Germany's capacity to pay over the next three years.

The scheme was to take the place of the one Secretary Hughes abandoned because of France's limitations on its scope.

The notification was made by Louis Barthou, French chairman of the commission.

As announced by Barthou, the French plan would be to have the reparations commission appoint a committee of experts who would examine Germany's means of payment and fix a scale for three years.

This inquiry would be begun at the conclusion of the hearing of German experts by the commission.

It was believed in well informed quarters today this would head off any further attempts by England to hold a conference in which France would be isolated and in which matters would be discussed that France considers prejudicial to her interest.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The United States will decline to participate in the proposed inquiry into Germany's resources that Premier Poincare of France is reported to be planning, it was officially stated at the White House today.

In view of the dissensions among the allies, however, it was feared decision on a common action would be difficult.

Though the government would consider what steps might be taken, there was some disposition to regard the rumors as ill-founded.

Care will be taken, it was said, to see whether there is any truth in the stories, but the rumor was regarded by many as the next idea that would occur to people's minds after hearing of the crown prince's return.

ALLIES WILL MAKE NO PROTEST TO DUTCH
BRUSSELS, Nov. 13.—The allied governments will not make any representation to the ex-kaiser's intention to return to Germany, it was learned today in authoritative quarters. They do not want to offend the Dutch government and they regard its undertaking to keep the ex-kaiser from leaving as water-tight, it was learned.

EX-KAISER GIVEN PASSPORTS FOR RETURN, REPORT
PARIS, Nov. 13.—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm has received passports from Chancellor Stresemann of Germany to return to the Fatherland, Brussels dispatches reported today.

It was reported the Ex-Kaiser yesterday received J. H. Kan, secretary general to the Dutch foreign minister at Doorn for a long conference on the question of the warlord's return.

The former German monarch also received friends from Germany and discussed the situation with them.

FORMER CHIEF OF VET BUREAU AIMS BLOW AT CRITICS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Matthew O'Brien, San Francisco architect, who was paid $97,000 for the Livermore, Calif., hospital, was recommended by Senators Johnson and Shortridge of California, and the entire California congressional delegation, Colonel C. R. Forbes testified before the senate committee investigating the veterans' bureau today.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A conspiracy based on perjury and the suppression of material facts, "the purpose of which is to encompass my destruction," was charged by former Director of the Veterans' Bureau Charles R. Forbes, when he took the stand in his own defense today before the senate investigating committee.

Colonel Forbes presented a prepared statement embodying the major features of his defense.

His statement said in part: "I feel that I cannot refrain from expressing to the committee at this time my growing belief, finally resulting in conviction on my part, which I expect by the testimony of disinterested witnesses to establish, that an attempt has been made to mislead this committee and that a conspiracy has been on foot, the purpose of which is to encompass my destruction by means of perjury, subornation of perjury, and the suppression of material facts and documents bearing not only upon my personal conduct as director of the Veterans' bureau, but also upon the official conduct of the affairs of the bureau by myself and my subordinates."

Will Deny Charges
"I deny generally and shall hereafter deny specifically and in detail the utterly false and groundless charges of official and personal neglect, dishonesty, graft, liquor drinking, loose conduct and any and every other dereliction of duty, official or personal, which has been ascribed either by the witnesses Mortimer and Williams and others, or charged against me by the counsel of this committee. "I do not mean that my administration was blameless; I do not deny its imperfections; I do not seek to shift any responsibilities to others, dead or alive, but I do assert that I have not consciously been guilty of any wrongdoings, either by act or neglect."

"Among the first difficulties I encountered was the insistence of Brigadier General Sawyer of the committee to hospitalize all disabled veterans in the ramshackle and tumble-down cantonment buildings throughout the country."

"They were housed in cantonments and contract hospitals, many of which were fire hazards," said Forbes.

Forbes said he closed the worst institutions and immediately pushed a vigorous campaign of adequate hospitalization.

"I feel that I would not be frank with this committee unless I added that in my honest belief most of the deficiencies in the administration of the laws providing for relief to the disabled veteran, has been due to politics and Sawyer."

"During the summer of 1922, after I had served something more than a year, my health began to break and I desired to retire."

Blames Sawyer
"In the month of December, 1922 and long before the President finally decided to issue his second temporary order stopping the delivery of goods to the President, I frankly told the President that I could not continue to serve if General Sawyer was to continue in office and it became simply a choice between Sawyer and myself and I relieved the President of any possible embarrassment by tendering my resignation. He deferred accepting it for sixty days beyond the date suggested by me for it to become effective."

Forbes charged that Sawyer was constantly interfering with the administration of the Veterans' bureau and that Sawyer bitterly opposed many of Forbes' plans for developing the bureau.

Upon one occasion, when Sawyer was not consulted in a matter, Sawyer became very angry, pounded his desk and shouted, "I'm the veterans' bureau."

WEAPON CHARGE FILED
Arthur Suarez was today charged with carrying a concealed weapon in a complaint filed by O. K. Carr, Santa Ana detective.

Inspector Smithwick yesterday questioned the boy when he drove an automobile to a service station here and attempted to purchase a quantity of gasoline without sufficient money to settle the bill.

The boy declared that his father was in the government service and was in Orange, where he had two men under surveillance, it was stated.

Smithwick took the boy to Orange and he pointed out Jacobs as his father. Jacobs denied the relation and said that he had just met the boy. Jacobs claimed he was an oil worker from Santa Barbara and had given the boy a ride.

Investigation today disclosed that Jacobs has a wife in Orange who several months ago swore to a complaint charging him with non-support. He will be prosecuted on this charge, it was said.

The boy recently passed several worthless checks on merchants of Santa Ana and Orange, it was alleged, and he may be taken before the juvenile court on this charge.

QUESTS TWO IN L.A. POLICE BOARD ROW

(By United Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—Police Commissioner J. H. De La Monte was today ousted by Mayor Cryer, followed shortly by the resignation of Commissioner C. A. De Coo.

The action climaxed a long series of attacks upon the two commissioners by supporters of Police Chief Vollmer, who claimed the chief was being blocked in his department program by De La Monte and De Coo.

De La Monte refused to resign and maintained his position to the last. His ousting followed a short conference with Mayor Cryer, from which he emerged with the remark:

"I told the mayor I would not resign. I have done nothing and there is no reason why I should resign. The council is now going to fire me."

The prediction was true. A few minutes later, Mayor Cryer notified the council of his action, and De La Monte's removal was unanimously approved.

In submitting his resignation, De Coo handed in a short explanation saying that he resigned because he believed "the city charter places the responsibility for the conduct of the police department upon the mayor," and for this reason he believed "the mayor should have a police commission of his own members of the commission will be named immediately, it is expected."

MAN IDENTIFIED AS SUSPECT IN WIFE CASE

PRESIDENT BALKS AT PROTEST

Holds German People Have Right to Decide on Own Government

EUROPE IN TURMOIL OVER NEW PROPOSAL

Speedy Action to Prevent Home Coming of Wilhelm Is Planned

(By United Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The American government will not join the allied powers in any protest to Germany against return of the former kaiser or the ex-crown prince or the restoration of a monarchy, it was stated at the White House today on behalf of President Coolidge.

This attitude is in line with the policy of the United States, it was explained, that a country is entitled to decide the form of government it wants.

The supposition of President Coolidge, it was stated, is that any protest from the Allies against monarchical activities in Germany would be made under provisions of the Versailles treaty but this country is not a signatory to that treaty, hence there would be no call for American action.

The Dutch newspapers were reported printing stories that the German monarchy would be restored on December 4 with the Kaiser himself on the throne.

HINTS OF WILHELM'S RETURN STIR EUROPE
LONDON, Nov. 13.—Rumors of ex-Kaiser Wilhelm's return to Germany, following his son's dash into the fatherland, startled Europe today.

Movements were on foot today in all allied capitals to restore sufficient war-time unity to head off the return of the warlord.

The Hague and Brussels and The Hague had handed the ex-kaiser twelve passports for himself and his entourage at Doorn set officials feverishly searching for means to keep the ex-kaiser out of Germany.

Bandits Kill Man to Get $500 Proceeds From Legion Carnival

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 13.—Three automobile bandits early today shot down and killed Richard Nagle, an Ohio farmer, and escaped with $500, proceeds of last night's American Legion carnival at Culver City, which the dead man, in company with his brother, Edward J. Nagle, had in charge.

The Nagles came to the carnival, with Richard carrying the money strapped to his side. They had discussed the possibility of encountering highwaymen, when they observed a machine rapidly overtaking them from the rear.

Unable to outdistance the bandits, the Nagles' car was forced into the curbing. Without word, one of the hold-up men opened fire, one bullet striking Richard Nagle in the back, another grazing his brother.

Edward Nagle grappled with the gunman, and knocked the weapon from his grasp. Then Nagle dashed down the street, shouting for help. When he returned, the bandits had fled. His brother was crumpled in the seat of the car, with the money gone. He died en route to the receiving hospital.

INVESTIGATORS CLAIM MEDIUM IN TRICKERY

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Rev. Mrs. Josi K. Stewart, who has been writing it with flowers to the $2500 prize offered by the Scientific American for real psychic phenomena, will not get that particular prize. That was made sufficiently clear when the investigators for the publication disclosed their official report on the five seances with Mrs. Stewart. The report accused the Cleveland mystic of trying to deceive the world and it answered Mrs. Stewart's recent request for some cool, scientific gentleman to explain how she got her spirit writings.

The report curiously alleged that Mrs. Stewart got her "spirit writings" by substituting her own cards, already written in hellebore and pink, for those supplied by the investigators. A reporter's German overcoat, worth $50,000, 000 marks, also aided Mrs. Stewart in getting her splendid writings on Mrs. Ned Wayburn's Bay-side lawn. The coat and its owner, said the investigators, were unwilling aids.

Failed, Says Report
The sentence of the sub-committee which investigated Mrs. Stewart's "phenomena" and took evidence at her five seances was as follows:

"Mrs. Stewart undertook to produce, for the Scientific American investigating committee, independent spirit writings upon cards supplied by the committee. The sub-committee in charge of Mrs. Stewart's sittings finds that she failed to do this. She has produced writings only on cards brought to the sittings by her and substituted for those supplied by the committee.

"The sub-committee therefore rules that Mrs. Stewart has failed to produce any demonstrably genuine psychic phenomena and that her claim to the Scientific American's reward and to the committee's further attention stands vacated."

Discredited By Cards
J. Malcolm Bird, secretary in charge of the investigation, said that scientific tests by the sub-committee had disclosed that on the first seance five cards were missing when Mrs. Stewart left. He added that the investigators believed Mrs. Stewart took them with her and then shuffled around until she had white index cards that looked like twins of the ones she took.

The sub-committee, at any rate, ascertained that Mrs. Stewart's five spirit writings appeared on five alien cards. They proved that the cards were not from their own stock by tests that showed them to be heavier, larger and of a different shade of white than the Scientific American cards.

SCIENTISTS TO UNCOVER MAYA RACE CITIES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—One of the most important scientific explorations probably ever undertaken and one which may resurrect a civilization antedating that of ancient Egypt will begin soon, in accordance with a contract recently signed between the Mexican government and the Carnegie Institute of Washington.

This will be a complete exploration into the ancient civilization of the Maya race of Mexico. The Maya civilization flourished in Yucatan, Mexico. The impending exploration is regarded as of the greatest importance and significance to the scientific world.

The group of scientists who will undertake the exploration probably will be headed by Dr. S. G. Morley. Dr. Morley has lived and studied many years in Yucatan and is the possessor of the most profound knowledge on the Maya race. It is expected that at least he will be in charge of the archaeological phase of the exploration.

Brush Covers Site.

Work is now in progress in Yucatan to clear away the woods and brush that have grown up around the ruins of the Maya civilization in order to facilitate the investigations of the scientists.

A great human aid for the impending exploration has been discovered in Yucatan—a Maya boy, who is a direct descendant of the last Maya king, according to word received here. It is said that this boy is able to read some of the ancient Maya writing and he will be employed to aid the scientists in their efforts to translate these thoughts of the hidden centuries.

The world has been unable only to guess at the achievements of the Maya civilization. But now the scientific institution led by the Carnegie Institute is to make the most complete investigation of all phases of the civilization of the Mayas.

Will Salvage Treasures

The great Maya cities will be in part restored, the lives of the people will be delved into and the conditions under which they flourished will be studied to determine how this mysterious race was able to achieve its progress. The Maya treasures will be salvaged, and after the work has been completed this ancient resurrected civilization will be preserved for posterity.

As an example of the great attainments which the Mayas developed, it is said at the Carnegie institution here that the so-called ball court of the ancient Maya city of Chichen-Itza, on which the coming explorations will center, was constructed in such a manner and its acoustics so arranged that the voice of ordinary pitch spoken in one corner of the court could be distinctly heard and understood opposite, about sixty yards away.

The greatest scientists in the world on the subject of the Maya civilization will be asked by the Carnegie Institute to take part in the explorations.

Supposed First Man Was Woman, Experts Say Fossil Denotes

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Women who would like to hold Eve was born before Adam may fall back on some sort of scientific support from Professor J. Howard McGregor, associate in geology in the Columbia Research association in human anatomy in the American Museum of Natural History.

Professor McGregor has received reports in the museum and has told of his visit this month to Professor Eugene Dubois of the University of Amsterdam, discoverer thirty years ago of the fossil skull and other remains of the ape man of Java and to scientists as pithecanthropus erectus, of which experts on the missing link have written copiously.

The idea is based on measurements and observations of the left thigh bone. Instead of being straight like a man's, it is oblique in form, due to its having supported a wider opening of the pelvic bones than in the male structure. Professor Dubois has written his belief that the fossil belonged to a super ape. Professor McGregor attributes them to a near man, because of the brain cavity, which is as large as that of some Australian primitive not yet extinct.

TROPICAL LOVE AFFAIRS DUE FOR AIRING

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—Details of the tempestuous domestic unhappiness of Mrs. Estelle Seldner Loney and her husband, Henry Nicholas Loney, "gold fish baron of the Orient," will be aired in Superior Judge Griffiths courtroom when each of the principals will attempt to win a suit for divorce.

Mrs. Loney filed a divorce complaint against Loney last May, in which she accused him of a series of cruelties beginning in 1917, while they were living in Java.

Two months after Mrs. Loney filed her suit, Loney countered with a cross-complaint, in which he accused his wife of undue familiarity with co-respondents too numerous to mention, hectic love affairs under tropic skies, upon the high seas, in the Old World, and in California. Before her marriage to Loney in 1907, Mrs. Loney was a millinery shopgirl in San Francisco. After her marriage she blossomed forth into society, and for many years was a familiar figure in San Francisco and transbay social circles.

Contempt Charged

In her suit for divorce, Mrs. Loney alleges that while the couple were living in Java six years ago, she was forced to seek shelter with friends because of her husband's tyranny. In July of this year, Loney, through his attorney Joseph McInerney, suddenly focused attention on east bay society, when he filed a cross-complaint. Among other things, Loney alleges his wife was guilty of undue intimacy with Thomas Vincent Ambrose, Oakland architect, and accuses her of unwelcome relations with dozens of other men, including young University of California students and other institutions of learning.

Co-Respondents Named

Among the men, Loney alleges, shared his wife's affections are the Earl of Yarnmouth while aboard a steamer bound for Singapore; A. C. Petrovsky, representative of the Singer Sewing Machine company in Java; F. van Rossen, Hoo-gendyk, at one time a resident of the Hotel Claremont in Berkeley, and Lieutenant Carl of the United States navy, stationed in the Philippines. In fact, Loney alleges, his wife's conduct became so notorious in Java that her name was "banned about in the clubs of Java and friends told him of Mrs. Loney's escapades when he returned home from business trips.

Mrs. Loney, who is 37 years old and the mother of a 14-year-old boy, is no fit person to have the custody of the child, Loney alleges. Mrs. Loney is now receiving $300 monthly from a trust established for her and her son, Philip, Loney states in his complaint.

Three Trainmen Killed In Open Switch Crash

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—Three men, the crew of the Horlich-Port Richmond-to-Harrisburg milk train on the Philadelphia & Reading Railway, were killed when the train crashed into a coal tippie here. It is said the switch was thrown open.

The dead: Robert Williams, engineer; Harry Deischel, fireman, and an unidentified brakeman, all from Reading.

To achieve its progress, the Maya treasures will be salvaged, and after the work has been completed this ancient resurrected civilization will be preserved for posterity.

As an example of the great attainments which the Mayas developed, it is said at the Carnegie institution here that the so-called ball court of the ancient Maya city of Chichen-Itza, on which the coming explorations will center, was constructed in such a manner and its acoustics so arranged that the voice of ordinary pitch spoken in one corner of the court could be distinctly heard and understood opposite, about sixty yards away.

The greatest scientists in the world on the subject of the Maya civilization will be asked by the Carnegie Institute to take part in the explorations.

SCION OF SHIP MAGNATE HELD AFTER CRASH

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—Joseph J. Tynan Jr., son of the general manager of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, was arraigned by Police Judge Lazarus on a charge of reckless driving, growing out of a serious collision in which three young women and a man were injured.

The collision took place at California street and Van Ness avenue, at midnight, when Tynan, driving south on Van Ness avenue, crashed into a touring car driven by William Leonard, 176 Duncan street, who was crossing the avenue on California street. Tynan's machine was overturned by the force of the collision. Leonard's machine was wrecked.

Both Drivers Escape

Both Tynan and Leonard escaped injury, but two young women and a man riding with Leonard and a young woman accompanying Tynan were taken to the Central emergency hospital for treatment.

The injured were:

Cecile St. Sure, 19, 243 Eighth avenue—Interior of her face lacerated by multiple cuts of the body; condition serious; later taken to St. Francis hospital.

Eunice Lawlor, 19, 40 Buena Vista avenue—Possible fracture of right knee, multiple cuts of face, arms and body; taken home.

Earl Tiernan, 21, 3330 Eighteenth street—Lacerated scalp and contusion of hands.

Allison Dolan, 2424 Fulton street, lacerated hand.

Girl Seriously Hurt

Miss Dolan was riding with Tynan and the others were with Leonard. Miss St. Sure is reported to be seriously injured.

Tynan appeared in court without counsel, and when the court was advised that the young women witnesses to the collision were unable to appear the case was continued.

BURGLAR-WIFE TAKES BLAME FOR FALL

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—Perhaps he would not have done so much if it had not been for my encouragement. I love nice things and I liked the excitement. With this statement Mrs. Julia Rasmussen, at the city prison, attempted to explain the arrest of her husband, Thorwald Rasmussen, and herself, the husband and wife burglars credited by the police with having committed two hundred burglaries in San Francisco, gathering more than $50,000 worth of loot.

"We really meant to make a cleanup," the wife explained. "You know, get ahead and then quit and live straight. But the thing was pretty easy, and it was exciting, and I think, maybe, my encouragement kept my husband at it longer than he would have done otherwise."

In his cell on the opposite side of the prison Rasmussen coolly discussed with detectives the number of burglaries he and his wife committed, he doing the house-breaking, while his wife sat in their automobile outside, ready to sound the horn in case of danger.

Worked in Fog

"We preferred to work on foggy nights because that gave us a better chance to keep an eye open for the police," Rasmussen explained. "My wife being in the car usually threw off any suspicion that might have been aroused by one or two men in an automobile driving around late at night."

Yet it was just this that led to the arrest of the pair. The detectives numerous times received information of a woman sitting in an automobile near the scene of half a dozen burglaries in the Sunset and Richmond districts, and one suspicious citizen took down the number of the car which was traced to the Rasmussens at Daly City.

Man's "Fence" Sought

While some members of the burglary detail were making an effort to learn the identity of the "fence" to whom the Rasmussens sold the stolen property other detectives of the detail were out with Rasmussen attempting to check up with him on the homes he and his wife have confessed to having robbed. Both Rasmussen and his wife have previous criminal records, Rasmussen having served a term in Folsom prison for burglary and his wife having been in the local jails for shoplifting. Rasmussen admitted yesterday having lived four months in Los Angeles and having "worked" a little while there.

Stolen Goods Found

More than $5000 worth of silverware and jewelry, alleged to have been stolen by Rasmussen from residences in the Richmond and Sunset districts, was recovered by the police in the store of Peter Benson, 935 York street. Valuable

Screw In Lung 40 Years Then Causes His Death

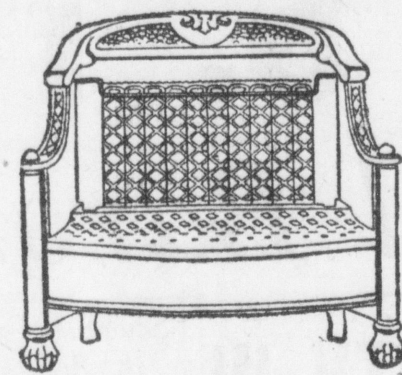

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Nov. 13.—After lying in one of his lungs for more than forty years, a small screw caused the death of William E. Rourke, 49, Norway, Ia., blacksmith.

Rourke, said to form a part of Rasmussen's loot, were recovered from the fur store of Leo Dyke, 505 Union street, according to the police. Benson and Dyke were arrested and charged with receiving stolen goods. Both confessed having purchased the valuables from Rasmussen, the police say. Other valuables found in the establishments of Benson and Dyke were recognized as having been stolen from homes in Los Angeles and other coast cities, according to the police.

What Is Brick?

Make no mistake about it—brick is a very definite thing—unless it is fire-burned clay it is not true brick.

There are inferior synthetic substitutes in every industry—the brick industry is no exception.

Brick is the greatest fire-resistant known to man because it is made in the presence of flame and terrific heat—it is forever after at home in that element.

Be sure when you say "brick" to your architect or contractor he understands you mean "burned clay brick".

SUMMER FOLK

AS VOTERS

Prospects that 116 summer residents of the city of Newport Beach will be denied the right to cast ballots in the initiative and referendum election on the oil pipeline franchise there next Tuesday, was seen here today, following the reading of an opinion last night covering the status of such voters.

The city board of trustees of Newport Beach by Clyde Bishop, city attorney at that place.

Bishop had been asked by the trustees to investigate the right of certain persons who reside in Newport Beach several months in the summer to cast votes at the election.
The trustees had expressed the majority of those people were residents of other cities and that their Newport Beach home was merely a temporary abode.

Precinct 2 May Be Hit.

The registrations in question were practically all in Precinct 2, which comprise the Balboa end of the city. Some persons in that section have opposed the introduction into the city of an oil pipeline and the use of the Newport Beach city pier for the loading of oil tankers.

The forthcoming election is an effort to rescind the action of the trustees in granting a franchise for the pipeline to the Thomas W.
Simmons company of San Francisco.

Bishop said that his opinion was based upon a supreme court decision in the case of the people
versus the city of Long Beach, which involved the annexation of the resort known as Terminal Island, and that conditions in that case and in the present instance are similar.

Issues Statement.

Bishop said:

"This case seems to be on all fours with the question which you have presented to me; namely, that if a person although he had lived a year in the state,
ninety days in the county,
thirty days in the precinct, if he comes into that precinct only on a vacation for recreation, he does not thereby become a resident of the character necessary to constitute him a qualified voter, even though he may have registered as such."

ASSOCIATED CHAMBERS DUE

IN SPECIAL MEETING.

A special meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce has been called for Wednesday at 2 p.
m. in the Santa Ana city council chamber, to reconsider the action taken at the last meeting of the organization at Garden Grove, wherein endorsement was given the board of trustees of the city of Newport Beach in granting a franchise for a pipeline to the Thomas W. Simmons interests.

Supporters of the referendum and initiative at Balboa against the pipeline, it was said, petitioned the officers of the Associated Chambers to call the special meeting.

Review Is Likely.

It was claimed that some 800 taxpayers of Newport Beach had entered their protests against the pipeline, on the ground that it would pollute the beach and spoil
the place for pleasure purposes. There are 3500 taxpayers in Newport Beach,
it was stated by Tax Collector J.
A. Porter.

The by-laws of the Associated Chambers provide that where a certain percentage of the delegates petition for a special meeting, such meeting shall be called.

The resolution passed by the Associated was to the effect that the "construction and operation of a pipeline for the purpose of carrying a portion of the oil produced in Orange county to tide water at Newport Beach, to be shipped to all markets of the world, would aid in the development of Orange county's harbor."

"The oil industry of Orange county produces not less than 60 per cent of the total of all income produced in Orange county, and pays a similar proportion of all taxes collected in and by Orange county. Therefore, it is the sentiment of this meeting that the voters look with alarm on the proposed action of the people of Newport Beach in barring from the use of products of the county, or industries that may be of value in the development of the county as a whole."

Birch interests. "However," Sleeper added, "it was the only thing they could do. I think it means that Birch has given up the idea of further efforts to secure reductions."

This view was shared by District Attorney A. P. Nelson, who expressed the opinion that the oil company has finally concluded to end its long-drawn-out litigation.

LAWYERS CLASH

WOMEN 2 FINED

AGAIN JAILED

With the proceedings marked by a verbal clash between Defense Attorney Joseph M. Wapner and officers who maneuvered to hold the defendants for federal authorities after they had paid $1,000 in fines to the county, Harry Stewart and L. Tjamesand were fined $500
each on liquor charges by Justice
J. B. Cox today.

After Wapner had entered pleas of guilty for both defendants and paid their fines, his ire was aroused by the refusal of deputy sheriffs to release the two men, who were arrested in a raid on alleged rum-runners at Seal Beach Saturday night.

As Wapner attempted to guide his clients out through one door of the courtroom, Chief Criminal Deputy Ed McClellan, with Deputy
Ray Wallace and Captain Henry Warner of the state motorcycle police, intervened and escorted the prisoners through another door to the county jail.

Demands Prisoners' Release.

Armed with releases from the court, Wapner sought the jail and demanded the release of Stewart and Tjamesand, but was told that they were being held on the order of federal officers, who were said to be then on their way to Santa Ana, Stewart and Tjamesand were wanted, it was indicated, for further investigations of asserted
"higher-ups" in the episode of the Seal Beach rum cargo.

Wapner reiterated the caustic comment that he had expressed in the courtroom, concerning what he termed "high-handed" methods of the local authorities. He complained that he had been denied admission to the jail to see his clients when he attempted to visit them Sunday evening and accused Sheriff Sam Jernigan of threatening him with physical violence.

$500 Action Hinted.

"The sheriff may find himself up against a $500 action for refusing to allow an attorney to visit a prisoner in jail," Wapner declared as he left, intimating that he might also seek a writ of habeas corpus to release Frank Walters, who was arrested in the same raid, and who is now being held for investigation, as liquor having been found in his possession.

Sheriff's View Told.

"He came to jail long after hours and automatically demanded admission without stating who he was or what his business was,"
said Jernigan. "The prisoners had never heard of him, they said, and it was only after I had questioned him that I learned that he claimed to be an attorney. Then I told him to come back the next day and if he was an attorney he would be admitted. We do not dare to admit anyone and everyone that comes to the jail and wants in."

While in court Wapner also demanded the release of two automobiles captured with their drivers and the asserted liquor cargoes. At the same time Deputy District Attorney D. G. Wetlin asked the court for an order officially confiscating the motor vehicles. Justice Cox declared he had no authority to issue either request. Thus the cars were left in possession of the officers, who stated that they would be held, together with another car which Walters had been driving.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy — If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark lines under the eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color, 15c and 50c.—Adv.

High School Lad Pays $15 Fine on Speeding Charge After Crash

Harold Jones, 16 years old, was arrested this morning by Patrolman O'Brien on charges of speeding across the intersection of First and Main streets and of failure to stop after crashing into another automobile driven by A. C. Koyle of Costa Mesa. The youth was fined $15 by City Recorder W. F. Heathman, on the speeding charge. The second charge was held in abeyance.

According to the arresting officer, Jones crossed the intersection at an approximate speed of 25 miles an hour. He was driving east on his way to the high school, where he is a student. The automobile driven by Koyle was traveling north on Main street.

After the crash, according to O'Brien, the boy attempted to speed away from the scene of the accident. O'Brien stopped the youth and placed him under arrest.

MRS. KELS LEARNS OF HUSBAND'S FATE

LODI, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Alex Kels, who was informed Saturday that her husband was in Folsom prison condemned to be hanged for the murder of Ed Merserey, aged 47, is bearing up well today. Merserey was shot and beaten to death September 12 by Kels, who afterward burned the body in a haystack. Kels said his business affairs were in bad condition and he committed the murder in the hope that his wife might obtain life insurance through mistaken identification of the body as his own.

After the crime Kels disappeared. Owing to approaching childbirth, Mrs. Kels was not informed of Kels capture and conviction. She bore a son a few days ago. It was given his father's name.

EARLY ACTION SEEN HERE AS TO LIBRARY TO CURB WORK OF ROBBERS

With the library board meeting tonight and members of the board scheduled to appear before the planning commission Friday night for discussion of plans for immediate relief of congestion at the public library here, it was expected today that within a short time some definite action in connection with the matter would be taken.

According to Dr. C. D. Hall, president of the library board, the members tonight probably will take up informal discussion of the problems of the library.

The city planning commission recently recommended that remodeling and enlargement of the present building at Sycamore and Fifth streets be held in abeyance until a plan could be worked out for a civic center on the present location of the Julia C. Lathrop junior high school at Main and Tenth streets.

Pointing out that 8209 patrons had registered at the library since March, 1922, and that during July, August, September and October of this year circulation of books increased 10,278 over the same period of last year, Miss Jeannette McFadden, city librarian, today declared that increased facilities could not await the development of the civic center project, unless temporary relief is provided.

LAGUNA BEACH CELEBRATION IS SUCCESS

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 13.—Laguna Beach has reason to be proud of the way in which the events of Armistice Day celebration at the newly acquired Skidmore park were handled.

Though the crowd was enormous it was not capacity, nor did it meet with the expectations of the promoters.

Long before ten o'clock the ones who had the interest of the project in success in view were on hand to see that nothing that was possible of attainment for the patrons' convenience was missing. In this respect success was due them. A large stand provided for the visitors' desires in soda pop of all kinds, cigarettes, cigars and all minor things which could be desired. The stand was managed by women of the Community club and had a number of hard-earned dollars to their credit at the end of the day.

One of the greatest attractions was, of course, the barbecue which drew everyone on the lot. Lines formed on two sides and as they passed their plates were liberally helped to the splendid barbecued meat, beans, tomato chow and they were given buns and coffee. This part of the program was handled by a professional.

The scheduled events began about eleven o'clock with the hill climb, which is an original innovation of the beach and is to be made an annual affair with the cup which was first prize going to the person who successfully holds it three years in succession. There were seven entrants and each one took a different course. Some chose to scale the almost perpendicular face of the mountain, while others took a circuitous route up the side and over the ridge. Regardless of the route taken, three contestants reached the summit, shook hands with the timers and started back almost simultaneously. Excitement was at a pitch when one contestant was seen swinging from one branch of a tree to another, monkey fashion. Nevertheless his tactics seemed best for he crossed the line first and held the honor of the town safe for a year.

The winner was Axel Moen, a sturdy Norwegian, who is a recent arrival in Laguna Beach. The second was Ted Stromerson, another Laguna Beach boy, winning a cash prize, and with the third the laurels went out of the town to Mr. Reid of Santa Ana.

The three bouts were then called, the first by local boys, Wilford Duarte and Alex Gingeas mixed it, the bout was supposed to go three rounds. Both entrants were catchweights, Duarte having the advantage of several pounds and by that advantage handicapping his opponent. He is also a skilled non-professional and after a

SOUND WARNING TO CURB WORK OF ROBBERS

City Marshal Claude Rogers today issued a warning to all citizens of Santa Ana regarding the proper protection of their property. Reports of a burglary and an attempt at burglary last night prompted this warning.

R. C. Best, 512 Vance street, telephoned the police that someone was attempting to cut the screen door at a neighbor's house. Police responded and found that a burglar had ransacked the home of Mrs. G. S. Burton, 515 Vance street. After cutting the screen, the marauder entered the house through the front door. He used a pass key to gain an entrance.

The house was completely ransacked and the contents of bureau drawers scattered about the rooms. A complete check of property had not been taken, but several articles of wearing apparel were known to have been stolen. According to police, the Burton home has been robbed before.

R. W. Colveta, 1316 Bush street, reported to the police that an attempt was made to rob his house last night. He said that the intruder cut the screen on the rear door while trying to effect an entrance. According to Colveta, thieves have made several attempts to enter his home. The attempts, according to Colveta, have all been made after midnight.

"Citizens should use every possible care to prevent their residences from being robbed," Rogers counseled. "Doors and windows should be securely fastened whenever the occupants of a house leave for more than an hour."

WHEAT COUNCIL FOR ACREAGE REDUCTION

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—The present wheat acreage of 62,000,000 acres planted should be reduced gradually to 50,000,000 acres, an acreage sufficient to take care of domestic demands, as rapidly introduced, the wheat production committee of the Wheat Council of the United States has decided, President Sydney Anderson of the council announced at the end of a day's meeting of the committee here yesterday. The meeting was to be continued today.

The committee, Mr. Anderson said, is confining its consideration to the development of a long-time program and the economic measures necessary to carry out such a program and afford relief to the wheat farmer.

The average annual consumption of wheat in the United States for food, feed for animals and seed is about six bushels per capita, or about 660,000,000 bushels a year. The average yield per acre over a period of twelve years is about 13.4 bushels, he said. The additional wheat required from year to year to meet the requirements of increased population should be obtained from a larger yield per acre, rather than from an increased acreage, he stated.

HONOR CALIFORNIAN
TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 13.—W. G. West of Topeka, was re-elected president of the Victoria Highway association at a meeting held here last night. Marshall Hale of San Francisco was elected to fill the newly created office of vice-president.

few seconds of tit-for-tatting managed to get in a low sock that landed Gingras on the canvas, with considerable of a cramp in his stomach. He did not rise to defend his title.

The second bout had Ted Swinford defending Laguna Beach and Jack Tuncliff as opponent. Favor was equally divided as Tuncliff is a popular summer resident of the beach and a clean fighter. This one too lasted only a few seconds, not going into the second round. After bloodying Swinford's nose and getting in several body punches while receiving several himself, Tuncliff put over a head blow and Swinford went down. He was up again at the count and was immediately knocked out as soon as the clinch was broken.

The third bout went to a decision in the third round in favor of the Riverside entrant, Harris. His opponent was "Whitney" Jeffries of Philadelphia, both professional and leary of each other's ability to hit. A bit of comedy was engaged in and only several bona-fide blows registered. It was enjoyable comedy though and as the crowd was not noticeably blood thirsty, it passed without causing a riot.

As the hill climb had called out the best in runners it was at that point that sentiment demanded it so it was run. Wilford Duarte winning, Ed Gripps coming in the money. Both are claimed by Laguna Beach.

A disappointment came with the discovery that the big league stars scheduled to be in the ball game could not appear. Due to a letter written Garry Cravath by Judge K. M. Landis they were warned of their disqualifications for big league playing if they participated in a game after November 10. At the last minute Universal City club was secured and they had the Irvine Beapickers on their hands for nine innings. Local sentiment, though coming to root Irvine, soon claimed them as the beach defenders and maintained a spirit of defiant defeat at the end when the game ended in Universal holding the big end of the 6 to 0 score.

Immediately upon the final play the exodus began and within a short time only several people remained in the park to see the shadows deepen, the hills turn black and the last light of a perfect day slowly lift from the canyon and disappear.

Carmel May Have New Fistic Clash Over Civic Affair

CARMEL, Nov. 13.—Dr. George M. Dorwart, retired clergyman, and Argyll Campbell, city attorney, may or may not emulate the famous fistic duel of Harry Leon Wilson, author, and Theodore Criley, painter. Dorwart's right to Campbell's right to a possibility of their meeting in primitive conflict, but Carmel, having had one sniff of fistic warfare between two of its best-known residents, is not so sure that the retired cleric and the city attorney may not clash.

Anyway, the latest squabble between widely known residents of the artistic colony began when Dr. Dorwart challenged Campbell's right to employ a stenographer.

Someone heard the word "challenge" and sallied forth with a story that the retired clergyman and the official were ready for fisticuffs or a duello, perhaps, involving more serious weapons than clustered knuckles. Dr. Dorwart asserted today that while he challenged Campbell's right to employ a stenographer, he did not mean convey the impression that he challenged the city attorney to a duello a la Wilson-Criley.

LIGHT RAINFALL IN SOUTH, PREDICTION

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 13.—An unusually dry winter may be expected in and around San Diego and other parts of Southern California, according to George F. McEwen of the Scripps institution for biological research at La Jolla. Dr. McEwen's studies during the summer lead to an opinion that a deficit of from 20 to 30 per cent under normal precipitation will occur this winter.

Temperatures of the ocean, lower than the average during late summer, means that more rain than usual may be expected in the following winter, while warm water along the shore during the summer months mean a lack of rainfall inland during the rainy season, according to Dr. McEwen. The water temperature of the past summer indicates, Dr. McEwen said, a rainfall in the lowlands of Southern California this winter of only eight inches as compared with a normal of from ten to twelve inches.

PLAN SUNRISE SERVICES HERE THANKSGIVING

Sunrise services on Thanksgiving morning will be introduced this year as a new feature of Christian Endeavor activity in the county, it became known today, following a meeting of officers of the Orange County Christian Endeavor and presidents of a number of societies in the county. The meeting was held Sunday afternoon at the First Presbyterian church, Santa Ana.

It is understood that Marcy Heights was suggested as the place for holding the services, but selection of the point was left to Newton Pierce, vice president, of Santa Ana.

With Homer Anderson of Garden Grove, president, presiding, fifty men and women were present, according to Miss Clara Kellogg of Santa Ana, secretary.

At the meeting, Fullerton was chosen as the city in which the next county convention will be held. The date will be set later, it was announced.

Dr. Harry E. Straub of Los Angeles, president last year of the state Christian Endeavor union, gave challenging talk to the officers, pointing out sources of possible failure and how much responsibility was theirs.

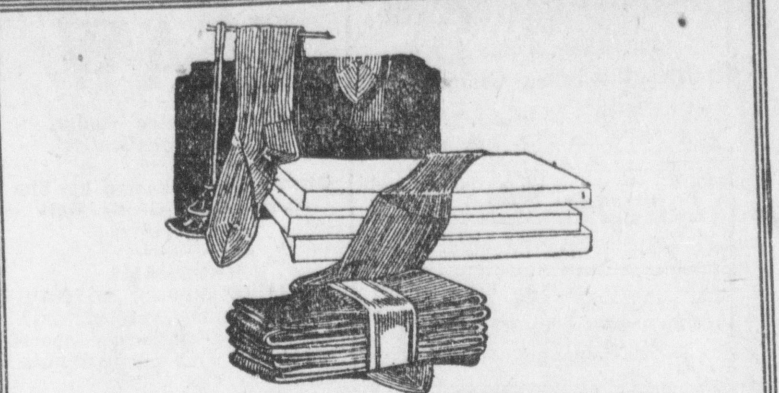

"Just as the machine refines the gold, so should the Christian Endeavor refine all those who come in contact with it," said the speaker.

Hollywood Nuptials

Unit Well-known Santa Anans

In Hollywood last Saturday at the manse of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Miss Charlotte Zimmerman and Norman Wesley Morgan, well-known young people of this city, took their wedding vows in the presence of a group of loving friends assembled before the Rev. Willis Martin, pastor of the church.

Miss Zimmerman, daughter of Mrs. Mina Zimmerman, 617 West Tenth street, and grand-daughter of W. H. Zimmerman, was a lovely bride in her filmy gown of apricot crepe de chine over blue taffeta. Her picture hat was in harmony with her costume and she carried pink roses with maidenhair fern.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Malden of Madera, themselves but recently wedded, served as best man and honor maiden. Mrs. Zimmerman and Mrs. Rose Morgan, mothers of the young couple, accompanied them to Hollywood and a number of friends gathered at the personage, witnessed the pretty ceremony and joined in a pleasant reception following.

Late that afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan departed for Santa Barbara on a motor honeymoon. Mrs. Morgan wearing a smart little sand color silk suit. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Malden who also were enjoying a postponed wedding trip and the four went on a happy ten-day period in the northern city.

Returning to Santa Ana, Mr. Morgan will resume his work in the oil fields and the happy couple will go to housekeeping at once. Mr. and Mrs. Malden will also return to this city where they plan to locate.

Both Mr. Morgan and his bride were Santa Ana high school students and the latter is quite well known in musical circles where her ability as a pianist has won her much attention. She was at one time pianist in the local orchestra, "The Dreamland Players."

Charming Sentiment Is Displayed In Choice Of Wedding Setting

One of the quietly charming weddings of early November occurred last week when Miss Rose Oahu Kellogg, daughter of Mrs. H. Clay Kellogg of 122 Orange avenue, and Albert Eugene Chast, son of Mrs. Guy Gary of Los Angeles and Grandson of Mrs. George Young of East Santa Clara avenue, chose Riverside as the scene of their nuptials.

A very beautiful sentiment was connected with the choice of the city, for the bride's father, the late H. Clay Kellogg, a civil engineer, was instrumental in laying out the sites of the city and of Corona, while the twelve-mile stretch of Magnolia Drive through which the party motored and which was characterized by Theodore Roosevelt as the most beautiful drive in America, was the result of his careful planning.

Judge Hibbard, a life-long friend of Mr. Kellogg was chosen to perform the nuptial rites while those assembled for the wedding included old friends of the family and the few local relatives who formed the party motoring from here.

Miss Kellogg was charming in a smart tailor of mid-night blue Polart twill with which she wore black satin hat and gloves. Her sister, Miss Helen Kellogg, also wore mid-night blue, her frock being a Spanish lace creation with picture hat to match.

Mrs. H. Clay Kellogg gave her daughter in marriage and the impressive double ring ceremony was used. Following the ceremony, the guests were seated to enjoy an elaborate wedding breakfast at beautiful Glenwood Mission Inn, the local group including the new Mr. and Mrs. Chast, Mrs. H. Clay Kellogg, Miss Helen Kellogg and Mr. and Mrs. George Young of Elsinore, uncle and aunt of Mr. Chast.

Returning to this city, the youthful pair have been staying at the bride's girlhood home but plan to spend the winter months with Mr. Chast's grandmother on East Santa Clara avenue while a beautiful bungalow home is being erected on McClay street.

The wedding is the second one within the month in the Kellogg family, H. Clay Kellogg Jr. having been wedded to Miss Dorothy Gaskell just a month ago.

Mr. Chast is connected with the Pacific Electric company as driver on one of the city buses. He is the sole heir of his grandfather, the late Eugene Chast, and is a nephew of Claude Rogers, city marshal. His bride, a charming and talented girl, is a graduate of Santa Ana high school and Junior college. Following her graduation last June from the latter, she has been with the James confectionery where her courtesy and pleasant demeanor have won hosts of new friends.

True to traditions of her family, she is deeply interested in Eastern Star work and was the first musician of Santa Ana chapter O. E. S. She is also a member of the Court of the Amaranth and the Ladies of the White Shrine, both Masonic auxiliaries.

Last Wednesday night, Miss Kellogg was guest of honor at a delightful little affair staged by the James employees who showered her with handsome gifts in linen and cut crystal which filled to overflowing the big cedar hope-chest, also a betrothal gift.

St. Ann's Inn Offers A Pleasant Setting For Dinner Party

Decorated in lavender and white, the private dining-room at St. Ann's Inn offered a charming setting for a delightful little dinner presented last Saturday night by Mr. and Mrs. William W. Kays in celebration of Mr. Kays's birthday.

A luscious roasted sucking pig was the piece de resistance of the five course dinner while the final course included a beautifully decorated birthday cake.

Following the leisurely enjoyment of the dinner, the guests repaired to the Kays home at 1106 West Fourth street where cards of deferred the evening's diversion.

Guests included presidents and assistants of the Frater Glass company which Mr. Kays represents in this city, and were practically all from Los Angeles. They were Messrs. and Mesdames J. A. Fraters, George Cote, W. Fairbairn, J. Wigren, W. A. Sullivan and M. R. Wilson while Santa Ana was represented by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Corl and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Kays.

Wedding Anniversary Offers Gay Party

A delightful social evening enjoyed last night by friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Babb was a surprise party held at the Babb home some half a dozen miles south of the city on the Newport road.

The occasion was to celebrate the thirty-second wedding anniversary of the hosts and about thirty-five friends and fellow members of the United Brethren church comprised the party. They succeeded in catching their hosts completely off their guard, so the surprise feature was a success as was the entire party.

Music and chat enlivened the evening while games were provided for the younger folk. Cake, coffee, nuts and apples, thoughtfully arranged for by the guests formed the supper enjoyed at a late hour by the wedding celebrants and their merry guests.

CITY EMPLOYEES DISMISSED BY BEACH BOARD

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 13.—Harry Ward, in charge of the cleaning department of the city, and his assistant, Paul Maris, were summarily dismissed by the board of trustees last night, following their arrest Saturday for using the city barns in storing wine and liquor, when officers swooped down on them and seized many gallons of illicit liquor.

A communication from Frank L. Rinehart, superintendent of streets, under whose department the men were dismissed, asking that the men be readmitted and on motion of Trustee Conrad Richter the board ordered that the men be relieved from duty.

Ward and Maris were arrested last Saturday following a raid of federal, county and local officers, headed by City Marshal J. A. Porter. The men maintained a living quarters in the municipal barns and it was there that the stuff had been stored. Evidence revealed the fact that the liquor had been brought to the barns but a few days before the arrest.

Ward had been an employee of the city for a number of years and was a most valued employee, the first collector of rubbish in a long time who was doing the work satisfactorily. However, the trustees felt that the honor of the city demanded its employees must obey the laws, and that it was a civic duty it owed the community to drop those men guilty of the slightest infraction of the laws.

Deeply Interesting Outlook For Inn Social Affairs

November promises to be a most interesting month in the annals of St. Ann's Inn, for many social and club affairs will center there throughout the month.

Thursday night of this week, the Jewelers' association will meet for a dinner, plans for which are largely in the hands of E. B. Smith. Manager Schweiger is now receiving reservations for the dance which promises to be as popular and successful a feature as its predecessors both of this season and of last year when the weekly dinner-dances at the Inn were among the happiest social affairs of the season.

Monday night, November 19, the Business and Professional Women will present a dinner to which many guests will be asked. On the following night, the Western Wholesale Drug company of Los Angeles is sponsoring a banquet of many covers while on Wednesday night, the Inn lobby will be given over to Mrs. Severn, who at 8 o'clock will present the first of a series of half a dozen lectures on Psychology, the others follow on November 23, 24, 25, 27 and 28.

Scheduled for Thursday night, November 22, the third annual Charity ball of the Orange County Shrine club, promises to eclipse in glory the two previous balls and to draw the record crowd of the year. The Charity ball is a feature which stands out as the pre-eminent social event of the year and one to which society turns out en masse.

On the following Sunday, music lovers will enjoy the afternoon musicale which Mrs. Violet Nedders and Arthur Smith, pianiste and vocalist, will sponsor.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 10.—Two indictments for dueling have been returned by the county grand jury here as one aftermath of the mysterious sinking of a rum-running schooner. ## Liquor at Rope's End Long Puzzles Police

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—How the Zaza Cafe, at 575 Pacific street, could serve its patrons with all the liquor they desired and yet not have any intoxicants in the establishment was solved. Whenever a customer ordered a drink, word was sent to the third floor of the building to a place apparently unconnected with the cafe. A basket containing the desired liquor would be let down by a rope, and the waiter would remove the bottle by passing his hand through a window. The basket was hauled up again, the liquor consumed, and there was no evidence. But the trick worked too often, and A. Fernando, B. Macchini and F. Leont were arrested.

Golfer Breaks Leg In Swing at Ball

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 13.—John E. Montgomery, vice president of the Pacific Coast Joint Stock Land bank here, lies in bed with a fractured bone in his left leg just above the ankle.

He was flanked by Bessie Carrillo and Polly Ross, two charming high school girls, who represented the San Juan Capistrano Girls' Riding club.

The Santa Ana Daughters of Veterans float was to illustrate "Emancipation." Anita Cane, Alta Warner, Ruth Langely and Velma Miller represented the spirit of Columbia. A. E. Chapman was Lincoln, and the kneeling slave was George Butler.

Villa Park grammar school mounted an old stage coach on a truck to depict "Stage Coach Days." Four girls and two boys rode in the vehicle.

"The Americanski Propaganda" float, designed by A. S. Ralph, showed a heavy bearded Bolshevik preaching against America and waving a red flag frantically. From time to time the radical would be assaulted and tramped to the ground by a group of husky Boy Scouts, who never let him get far out of their sight.

Field Kitchen Mounted

Mary Catherine Kelsey, the first child born to an American soldier and his wife on the Rhine, was the only "one man" exhibit in the whole parade. She was dressed as a little Dutch girl and rode with her father and mother.

The Huntington Beach Legion post had a field kitchen mounted on a truck and members threw out pieces of hard tack to the crowd.

Attorney Otto Sanaker, who represented Hernandez, had been appointed by the court for that purpose, Hernandez having indicated that he had no funds for employing counsel. Today, however, he told the court he had $30 and wanted to hire additional counsel, though Sanaker was serving without remuneration.

AMERICAN MEN WEAR WEDDING RINGS? WHY NOT, VIEW

Move In England to Make Each Give Jewelry Is Lauded By Locals

SACRED SERVICE SEEN

Hit and Miss Marriage Is Deplored by Santa Ana Friends of Cupid

Should American men wear wedding rings?

"Well, why not?" demanded R. L. Bisby, general manager of the Spurgeon Realty company, leading Mason, Scot and community worker. "They do it in Europe and regard it as a beautiful custom."

"But how about you?" was the question hurled at Bisby. "Do you wear a wedding ring?"

"Sure," said Bisby. "Want to see it? All right, there you are!" Whereupon he held out his hand and displayed a nifty bit of jewelry which he characterized as his wedding ring.

Tribute Cited

"In England," Bisby said, "an influential body of clergy, headed by Bishop Weldon, will ask the House of Clergy to amend the marriage service. It is desired to omit the word 'obey' and the 'giving away' question. Under the new service, if adopted, both the man and the woman will give rings."

This should work out satisfactorily, according to J. M. Backs, Orange county clerk, who has issued so many marriage licenses he no longer remembers the number.

"Let the man wear a wedding ring if he wishes to do so," said Backs. "I am sure it would be a beautiful tribute to a woman, anyway."

Sacred Obligation Too
Marriage, according to the Rev. W. E. Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is one of the most sacred obligations men and women could assume, and should be given the benefit of every reasonable aid.

"If the double ring service, or the wearing of a ring by the man, will help men and women better to appreciate the sacred gravity of marriage, I am firmly in favor of it," the pastor explained.

"From time to time I have men and women come to me asking that we use the double ring service. It is a custom that comes to us from Europe, and in many cases it proves to be very beautiful."

Expresses Accord
"I have never been in harmony with some marriage ceremonies. I

SPIDER ANCHORS PICTURESQUE WEB WITH ROCK BIGGER THAN MARBLE BETWEEN FIR TREES

Spiders, long the subject of close study by Daniel Morehouse, city water department employee, do some wonderful stunts down at the First street plant. "Here, for example," said Morehouse, pointing to a slender silken thread running between two fir trees, "is a spider's web, suspended eight feet above the ground and anchored with a tiny rock, which clears the ground by fully two feet. Now, how in thunder did that little feller anchor that rock, suspend it in midair, and turn out a rope powerful enough to hold it? I tell you, intelligence is at work there."

John Masefield, or some other other distinguished ink-slinger who had looked deeply into the more significant things in life, said something about the musical magic of the trembling wire. John was referring to a violin.

David Morehouse, employee of the city water works, 722 West First street, today had a lot to say about the magic of a trembling strand spun by a spider.

Down at the city water works they have a number of fine-looking young fir trees. These trees are set sixteen feet apart. Last night an industrious spider, bent upon spinning a web that would bring in an ample supply of provender, used two of the fir trees as mastheads and erected one of the most pretentious spider homes ever seen at

MAIL DELIVERY EXTENDED TO 48 BLOCKS

Free Service Authorized Here Provided Certain Requirements Met

Authorization was received today by the Santa Ana post office to extend free city mail delivery to forty-eight city blocks not now served with residence mail delivery by carrier. The authorization came in a telegram from the post office department at Washington. It was announced at the post office that the extension of the service to the blocks included in the authorization will be made as soon as the requirements of the post office are met by those who live on the blocks to be served.

These requirements are:

First—That the block be sidewalked.

Second—That street signs be placed at the corners of the block.

Third—That 50 per cent of the lots in the block be built upon.

Fourth—That the house served is plainly numbered with its street number.

Fifth—That an acceptable mail box be placed at the front of the house or that slits in doors or elsewhere at the front of the house be provided into which mail may be dropped.

Situation Is Told

"With the exception of one block," said Postmaster T. E. Stephenson, "the first provision has been met. This one block is the 1700 block on West Second; that block will not be given mail service until the sidewalks are in."

"Quite a number of the streets have not yet met the second provision. Most of the blocks, however, bear the street signs."

"Practically all of the blocks are 50 per cent built up, as required under the third provision. There are three or four instances in which service will be given only to the half block that is built up. The 1100 blocks on Oak and Hickory are in that situation."

"The fourth provision has already been met satisfactorily by nearly every house. Any residence that has not its number on it cannot be served."

"The fifth provision is one that will have to be met by the scores of residents on the streets to be served. There must be an acceptable receptacle for mail, or a slit provided into which the mail can be inserted."

Scores Cheap Boxes

Stephenson said that the office will not accept for delivery any residences that put out the cheap tin boxes found on many residences.

"If there is a hane of a carrier's lot," said Stephenson, "it is the cheap tin mail box. I am referring to the tin box that is sold for from 15 to 35 cents. These boxes are unfit for mail service. In the first place they are too small. A large letter has to be folded in order to go in the box. The thing that I object to, as postmaster, and the reason why I shall refuse to accept these cheap boxes, is that they are cut with rough sharp edges. Every time a carrier tries to get mail into one of them he stands a chance of scratching his fingers or hand. Carriers frequently receive severe cuts. Some of them have scars, they will carry with them always. It is not a fair thing for any resident to ask a carrier to serve such boxes."

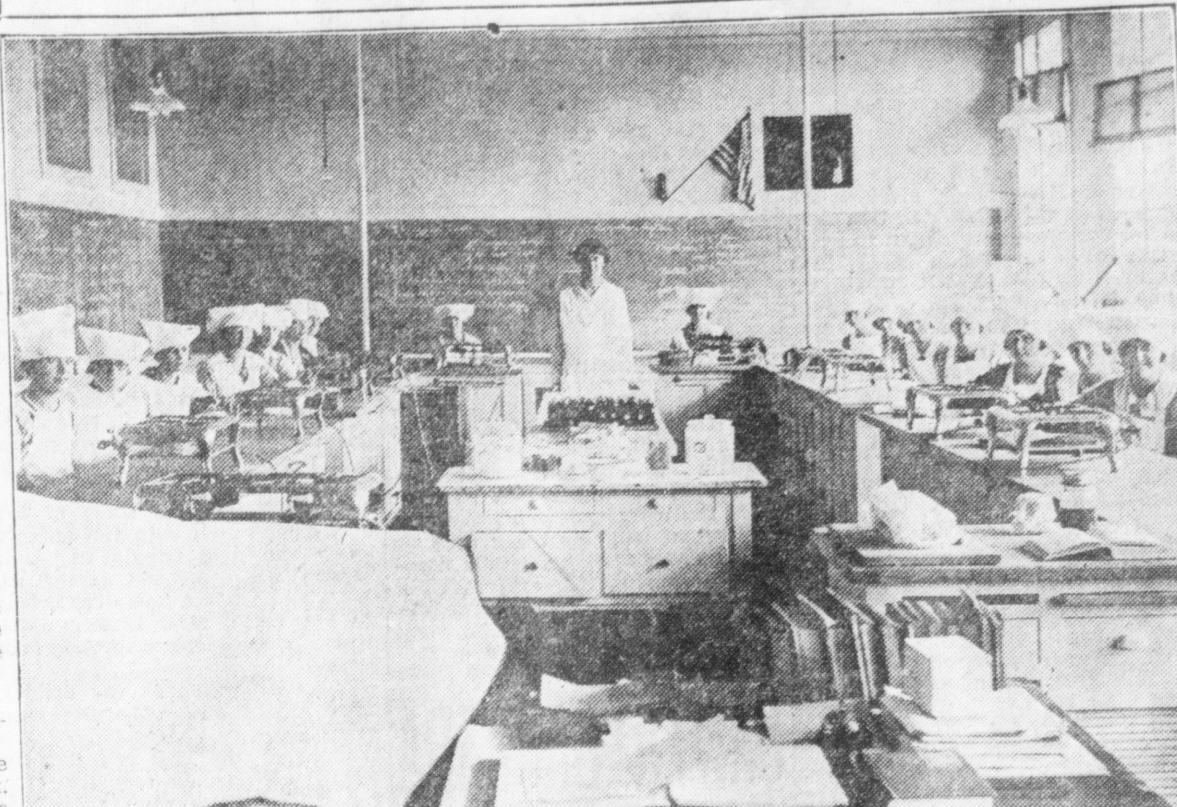

The postmaster said that the cheap boxes rust out in a short time. They become unsightly.

New Areas Added

The blocks that are listed for free mail delivery follow: 1500 block, Dresser street. 2200 block, Bush and Spurgeon.

NO COLD BREAKFAST FOODS FOR THE FUTURE MATES OF THESE GIRLS; SAY J. C. CLASS

Miss Bertha Stein, head of the home economics department of the high school and junior college, with her college cooking class. They have heard that wives should know how to cook. It is rumored. Insert, Miss Nellie Bales, one of the class.

The way to a man's heart is not through his pocketbook, girls of the cooking classes at the high school and the junior college here have been told, their instructor, Miss Bertha Stein, intimated today.

And in their cook books, which some may place in their hope chest, the instructor added, there will be some axioms on "How to Maintain Marital Bliss." Among these will be one headed "The Kind Mother Used to Make," she said, with a laugh, who heads the home economics departments of both schools, wouldn't have it gathered from her conversation that these white-capped maidens in her classes are bent on becoming business women, who can assert their independence in financial affairs of the days to come.

Like every other similar feminine group of the same age, many are looking to the time when steaming biscuits will start two or more off on the day in right way, she continued.

She would go even further and wager that some time, some day, the "first breakfast" won't be of cold cornflakes.

There are more than 130 girls in the high school and college classes in cooking.

Here's hope for 130 to be placed in the "happy-husband" category, is the toast she sings, in her daily routine.

Pay Final Tribute To Noted Historian

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—Final tribute to Dr. Geo. Wharton James, noted authority on the history of the southwest, was paid today by prominent scholars, authors and scientists of Southern California at his funeral in Pasadena.

Dr. James' many works on the natural wonders of the southwest, its early history and the Indians, have brought him recognition as a final authority upon that subject.

Governor Renews War As 'Gas' Price Soars

MITCHELL, S. D., Nov. 13.—Governor William H. McMaster today renewed his war on gasoline prices in the face of any increase of two cents a gallon announced by the Standard Oil company, bringing the retail price of 17½ cents. McMaster ordered the state highway supply depot to sell gasoline at 16 cents.

'RED' SUSPECT INDICTED AS SYNDICALIST

UKIAH, Nov. 13.—Oscar Erickson of Port Bragg was indicted by the Mendocino county grand jury on a charge of criminal syndicalism. A large amount of documentary evidence showing, the officers allege, he was an organizer for the I. W. W., was found in his possession. Cards taken from the prisoner had illustrations of burning forests, and underneath the illustrations were the words: "A Red Card for a Redwood Forest."

The man had been in jail but a short time when he was furnished $2500 cash bail. A book taken from him was full of instructions setting forth how to act when arrested. The advice went on to say the prisoner should answer no questions, and in detail related what his course should be.

Many indicted. Many alleged law violators, some of them charged with being second and third Volstead act offenders, were indicted by the grand jury here. Izzo Oblath sold drug agents, some Scotch whisky at Fort Bragg. Joe Lima, also a Fort Bragg resident, was caught with liquor in his possession. Otto Evers of Westport was accused of selling liquor in a soft drink parlor. Matt Sankovich, in trouble the third time for dry law offenses, will probably be deported. Mendocino county officials state that he went from here to San Francisco, and through alleged connivance with parties in authority in San Francisco, obtained citizenship papers illegally. An effort will be made to void these papers, and have Sankovich sent back to Australia.

Fraud Charged
Alleging more than $30,000 worth of stock was sold in Mendocino county by parties representing themselves agents of the Coast Steam Car corporation, and that the money was obtained fraudulently, the Mendocino county grand jury indicted W. T. Dickson and Frank A. Joyce of San Francisco. Many local business men were induced to buy stock, and the claims are that after a payment on the stock was made and letters intimating the company was in trouble, agents returned again in Mendocino county and got further payments from some of the stock buyers.

Drinks Wood Alcohol
Thinking It Medicine
VENICE, Cal., Nov. 13.—Groping in the dark for a stomach remedy, Edith Harris, 20, grasped a bottle of wood alcohol by mistake, drank it, and was found a half hour later by members of her family who moved here to a hospital.

Although she is suffering from severe wood alcohol poisoning, attending physicians said she would probably recover.

LAUD DEFENDANT IN SHIP CRASH TRIAL

(By United Press Leased Wire)
SAN DIEGO, Nov. 13.—Captain Robert Morris, the fourth officer to be tried by the naval court martial in connection with the Point Honda destroyer disaster September 8 last, faced the second day of his trial today confident that he would be acquitted of the charges against him.

Testimony of his brother officers yesterday was favorable to him. Captain Edward H. Watson, squadron commander, who was the first officer convicted, paid high tribute to Capt. Morris, declaring his conduct was exemplary during the disaster and that he acted, in his opinion, to the best of his knowledge and ability.

The accused was in command of the Destroyer S. P. Lee.

NEW HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN TO BE MAPPED

With selection of a date and organization of teams scheduled as the important features of the meeting, seventy-five men of the city will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at O. A. Haley's garage, Bush and Fifth streets, for the purpose of completing plans for a campaign for funds for the proposed new hospital of the Santa Ana Valley Hospital association.

According to Haley, the three leaders, fifteen team captains and members of each team are expected to attend.

Pointing out that it is important that members of the teams should be present to participate in discussion of plans, Haley urged that all who have been asked to become members of the teams make it a point to be present.

"A well-equipped hospital is very necessary to this community and citizens generally should support the movement to secure an up-to-the-minute plant," said Haley.

"The city is woefully lacking in adequate hospital facilities and the present seems the opportune time to complete the work of financing the proposed institution. With approximately $125,000 already pro-

Warning To Auto Salesmen

Often a sale is lost where the "wheels only" happen to be out of alignment. Therefore, all cars should have their wheels "checked up" before they are sent out.

When you allow a car purchaser to leave your establishment without proving to him that his front wheels are in line, you may be opening the way for an argument that may result in loss of money to you or to dissatisfaction and discontent on the part of the owner. Should the wheels be out of line, the owner may ruin one or two tires. Then arises the dispute as to the responsibility.

You can have them lined up at Andrews & Miller—with the Bear Automatic Wheel Aligner.

MATING IN THE WILDS

BY OTT WELL BINNS

ILLUSTRATED BY - R.W. SUTTERFIELD -

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hubert Stane, who has been in prison, visits a northern post of the Hudson Bay Company. He meets an old-time trapper, Gerald Ainley, who is about to leave on a trip with a governor of the company. Ainley is in love with Helen Yardley, niece of the governor. Stane becomes acquainted with a beautiful Indian girl named Miskodeed. Ainley promises to call at Stane's camp at midnight, but fails to appear. Stane is attacked and, when he regains consciousness, he is in a canoe with Indians. Helen disappears from her uncle's camp and Gerald goes in search of her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

ISLAND after island they inspected and hunted, meanwhile keeping a sharp lookout on either side of the river, but in vain. They were hoarse with shouting when the last of the islands was reached, and on Ainley's face a look of anxiety manifested itself. Landing at the tail of the island the Indian hunted around until he found a dry branch, and then he threw into the water and stood to watch its course as it went down river. The drift of it seemed to be towards a bar on the eastern bank, and towards that, distant perhaps a couple of miles, the course of their canoe was directed. When they reached it, the Indian landed, and began to inspect the bank closely. Ainley watched him with apprehension. Presently the Indian stooped, and after two or three attempts fished something from the water. He looked at it keenly for a moment, then he gave a shout, and began to walk along the bar towards the canoe.

As he came nearer, the white man saw that the object he carried was the spoon end of a paddle. When close at hand the Indian held it out for his inspection. "Him broke," he said in English. "And the break quite fresh."

There was no question as to that. Notwithstanding that the paddle had been in the water, the clean wood of the fracture showed quite plainly, and whilst Ainley was looking at it the Indian stretched a finger and pointed to a semi-circular groove which ran across the broken end.

"Him shot?" he announced quite calmly. As they started down river again, Ainley's face took on a settled look of anxiety. It was now close on midnight, but very light, and on either bank everything could be clearly seen. They kept a sharp lookout but found no further trace of the missing canoe, and the early dawn found them in a quickening current, racing for the point where the tributary river joined the main stream.

Ainley looked ahead. Downstream the river narrowed and the low broad banks about them gradually rose, until they were like high ramparts on either hand. The Indian pointed towards the tree-crowned cliffs.

"No good there," he said. "We land here, and make grub; walk down and see what the water like." A few minutes later they were afloat again, and after a little time there was no need to paddle. The current caught them and flung them towards the limestone gateway at express speed. In an amazingly short time they had passed through the gorge, and were watching the banks open out on either side of them.

There was no sign of life anywhere, no indication that any one had passed that way since time began. As they sped onward a peculiar throb and rumble began to make itself heard. It increased as they neared the range of hills towards which they were making, and as the banks began to grow rocky, and the water ahead broken by boulders, the Indian looked for a good place to land.

He found it on the lee side of a bluff where an eddy had scooped a little bay in the steep bank, and turning the canoe inside it, they stepped ashore. Making the canoe secure they climbed to the top of the bank and began to push their way down stream. The river but a few feet below them, bordered by shelving terraces of rock, suddenly disappeared. Rolling glassily for perhaps fifty yards, with scarce a ripple on its surface, the water seemed to gather itself together, and leap into a gorge, the bottom of which was ninety feet below. Ainley stood looking at the long cascade for a full minute, a wild light in his eyes, then he looked long and steadily at the gorge through which the river ran after its great leap. His face was white as death, and his mouth was quivering painfully.

Then without a word he turned and began to hurry along the line of the gorge. The Indian strode after him.

"Where go to?" he asked. "The end of the gorge," was the brief reply.

An hour's wild walking brought them to the end of the gorge, and looking down the rather steep face of the hill, to the widening river, the white man carefully surveyed the banks. After a time he found what he was looking for—a pile of debris heaped against a bluff, whose hard rock resisted the action of the water. It was about a quarter of a mile away and on the same bank of the river as himself. Still in silence he began to drop down the face of the hill, and sometimes climbing over mossy rocks, sometimes wading waist-high in the river itself, he made his way to the heap of debris. It was the drift pile made by the river, which at this point cast out from its bosom logs and trees and all manner of debris brought over the falls and down the gorge, a great heap piled in inextricable confusion as high as a tall fir tree, and as broad as a church.

Feverishly, Gerald Ainley began to wade around its wide base, and the Indian also joined in the search, poking among the drift logs and occasionally tumbling one aside. Then the Indian gave a sharp grunt, and out of the pile dragged a piece of wreckage that was obviously part of the side and bow of a canoe. The Indian put a brown finger on a symbol painted on the bow, with the letters "H. C. C." beneath. Both of them recognized the piece of wreckage as belonging to the canoe in which Helen Yardley had left the camp.

The Indian cooked a meal, of which Ainley partook with but little care for what he was eating, his eyes fixed on the ochre-colored water as it swept by his face the index of unfathomable thoughts. After the meal they began to track their canoe upstream, until they reached water where it would be possible to paddle, one of them towing with a line, and the other working hard with the paddle to keep the canoe's nose from the bank. A little way before they reached the limestone ramparts at which they had swept at such speed a few hours before, the Indian, who was at the towline, stopped and indicated that they must make a portage over the cliffs made it impossible to the canoe to go through. In this task, a very hard one necessitating two journeys, one with the canoe and one with the stores, they were occupied the remainder of the day, and when they pitched camp again, had eaten the evening meal, the Indian promptly fell asleep.

But there was sleep for Gerald Ainley. He sat there staring at the water rushing by, reflecting the crimson flare of the Northern night. And it was not crimson that he saw it, but ochre-colored, he had seen it earlier in the day, hurrying towards the rapids below, and to that ninety-foot leap into the gorge.

Rising to his feet, he stumbled out of the camp, and began to walk restlessly along the bank of the river. He was body tired, but his mind was active with an activity that was almost feverish. Try as he would he could not shut out the visions which haunted him, and as fast as one departed one, a new one was conjured up.

He walked far without knowing it, driven by the secret agonies within, and all the time conscious that he could not escape from them. Then that befell which put a term to these agonizing imaginings. As he walked he came suddenly on the ashes of a camp fire. For a moment he stared at it, uncomprehendingly. Then his interest quickened, as the state of the ashes showed some one had camped at this place quite recently. He began to look about him carefully, walking down the shelving bank to the edge of the river. At that point there was a stratum of soft clay, which took and preserved the impression of everything of weight which rested upon it; and instantly he perceived a number of footmarks about a spot where a canoe had been beached twice.

Stooping he examined the footmarks minutely. There was quite a jumble of them, mostly made by a long and broad moccasined foot, which was certainly that of a man; but in the jumble he found the print of smaller feet, which must have been made by a youth or girl. A quick hope kindled in his heart as he began to trace these prints among the others.

Then suddenly the hope became a certainty, for in the rough grass he saw something gleam, and stooping to recover it, found that it was a small enameled Swastika brooch similar to one which he had seen three days before at Miss Yardley's throat.

Excitedly he broke on the slumbers of his Indian companion, and after showing him the brooch, bade him accompany him to the place where he had found it, and there pointed to the footmarks on the river bank.

"We must get back to the camp at once, Joe. We must find out if Miss Yardley has returned. We know now that she is alive, and at all costs we must find her. We will start at once for there is no time to lose."

CHAPTER V WHEN Hubert Stane took stock of his position, after his captors had left him, he found himself in a country which was strange to him, and spent the best part of a day in ascertaining his whereabouts. Studying the disposition of the country carefully, he reached the conclusion that by a roundabout journey he had been brought to the river on the upper reaches of which he had his permanent camp; and as the conviction grew upon him, he made his way back to the canoe, and began to work his way upstream.

Does $50 Damage to Office; Loses Pants In Fight On Mouse

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—While hundreds of persons were celebrating Armistice Day in the street below, Collector of Customs Louis H. Schwabe fought a deadly duel in his office with a tiny mouse which ended in the mouse's death and $50 damage to the office. When occupants of the building heard the commotion they rushed in and found Schwabe on the floor. His trousers were torn nearly off, a leg was broken off his desk, a vase lay in bits on the floor and the cuspidor had emptied its contents on the office rug. Investigation revealed the mouse had died from fright. "That mouse had been bothering me for nearly a year," Schwabe said, "and I made up my mind to get him." He then turned the remains over to the janitor, patched up his apparel and remarked that he would spend the rest of the day celebrating the allied victory.

Under the new service, if adopted in England, the man and woman will give rings and declare: "With this ring I thee wed; with my body I thee honor; all my worldly goods with thee I share; in the name of God, amen."

SANTA BARBARA BONES AROUSE SCIENTISTS

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 13.—With the arrival of more men of science, arrangements were being completed here today for further excavation work in the Burton mound, where prehistoric skulls recently dug up have prompted the theory that Southern California was the original Garden of Eden.

Work was being continued on a limited scale, while Professor J. P. Harrington, Smithsonian Institute research expert, gathered other scientists about him to study the bones and fossils so far discovered.

Careful plans are underway to remove the skeleton of one of the three tooth whales thus far located. It is hoped to release the huge framework intact.

Next evidence tending to either prove or deny the claim that the Santa Barbara coast region cradled the world is expected to come from New York. The two prehistoric skulls recently brought to light are enroute to the eastern city, where they will be studied by Dr. Oettinger, of the Museum of the American Indian.

Labelled "Adam" and "Eve", the skulls are believed to be those of a race which lived here many thousands of years before the Indian tribes first inhabited the country.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Conaway also attended the Laguna Beach celebration.

Friends from Long Beach spent Sunday with the C. E. Scott family. Mr. A. Scott is spending a few weeks in Medford, Oregon.

A number of women are busy screening beans, at the L. F. Moulton warehouse.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Bennett had visitors from Whittier Sunday. Relatives from Pasadena were week-end guests at the H. W. Swartz home.

Firemen Tendered $25 For Aid During Blaze

Fire Chief John Luxembourg today had received a check for $25 mailed him by Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Prescott, who live at Seventeenth and Newport roads. The check was sent members of the Santa Ana fire department for assistance given the Prescott family several weeks ago when their home was destroyed by fire.

The Prescott home was several miles outside the city limits. The fire department, which responded to a telephone call for help, was instrumental in saving considerable personal property of the Prescott family.

NATIONAL CLUB LEADER LAUDS MODERN GIRL

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—"I'm all for the flapper," smilingly asserted Mrs. Thomas G. Kinter, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in commenting on the problems of the swiftly changing modern world. "It is time we women of the older generation withheld our condemnation and extended our sympathetic appreciation instead."

"Our flapper girl has stepped from the shoulders of the women of past ages into a modern world made to her hand. Of course, she has self-confidence. Why shouldn't she? She has never known the restrictions that we of the older generation struggled with. She is independent. She does not have to worry over 'what will the neighbors say,' the bogey held over her mother."

Restrictions Unknown

"The modern girl will be able to do the things that we older women have striven for and she will do them easily."

Mrs. Winter told some of her own experiences with the girls of today and paid tribute to their "brains, character and nerve." Divorce and modern home conditions do not make Mrs. Winter pessimistic over the state of American society.

"I have watched the divorce mills grind," she said. "But even so I believe that right today there is more of the kind of marriages where there is not only love, but respect of each other's minds, and characters and individual rights, than there has ever been before."

Fifty-Fifty Job

"Life is a 'fifty-fifty' job for men and women," she continued. "It is true in marriage as in everything else. I have no sympathy with the Woman's party that lines up one sex against the other."

Mrs. Winter has nothing of the masculine in her personality in spite of the tremendous power that her leadership of enfranchised women has given her. Soft curls of gray hair given her face. She affects lace ruffles, fluttering plumes and the distinctly feminine fripperies of dress and she speaks with a glorified smile of the "perfectly good husband" who waits for her at home in Minneapolis.

A word about grandchildren, too, brings that special smile to her eyes. And she has no political aspirations, though literally scores of such jobs have been offered her. "Senator of Minnesota?" she repeated in response to a question. "Not on your life. I have no desire to enter politics. And when I have finished this beautiful experience that has brought me great recompense in having had the opportunity of knowing women I want nothing but to be at home with my family and to take up writing once more."

CALIFORNIA RANKS FOURTH IN INCOME

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—Figures on the income-tax survey for the business year 1921, just announced by Collector Goodcell, show that in personal incomes reported California ranks fourth among the States, being exceeded by New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois only. This officially designates California as one of the four big States.

California led all of the states of the Union, except New York in income derived from profits on the sale of real estate, stocks and bonds.

The total personal income reported for income taxes in California reached the staggering sum of $1,336,491,000.

For wages and salaries, $752,398,000 was reported. This total was exceeded only by New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio, with California and Massachusetts running a close fifth.

California produced $160,779,000 in income from business. The rank here is: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, California.

In dividends California reported $120,484,000, which ties with Ohio for fifth place among the States.

From interest and investment income, California returned $120,444,000, running Illinois a tie for third place.

Partnerships reported incomes of $80,612,000, from rents and royalties $99,328,000, and from interest on government securities not wholly exempt from tax, $2,224,048.

An outstanding feature of the report of Collector Goodcell is the statement that California reported more personal income than the combined amount turned in by thirteen Western States—Washington, Oregon, Colorado, Arizona, Arkansas, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah and Wyoming. They returned $1,334,452,000 compared with the California's total of $1,336,491,000.

the big pumping plant. "Not only that," Morehouse explained, "but this spider, which you can see up there in the fir tree, where it parks during the day, anchored this big web with a boulder. If you don't believe it, look and see for yourself."

"Straight across, from one tree to the other and at a height of about a foot above a six-foot man's head, the spider ran a slender critter hung the web. On the bottom of the web, and swinging a foot above the ground, the spider anchored a pebble as big as a marble. It's a fact! Wrapped the powerful silk strand around the little stone and made the stone swing in the air like the pendulum of a clock. There! See it."

Morehouse and his fellow workers, guarding the web carefully, declared the swinging pebble, suspended from the spider's web, was the most striking proof of the strength of the gossamer-like threads they had ever inspected.

The measure of a man

THE best man wins—from schooldays up! Every parent, down deep, wants his (or her) boy to excel. You want him, all through life, to be a leader in his own group—don't you? You want him, even as a kid, to be able to exhibit a little more muscle than most boys his age. Or, jump a little further. Or, run a little faster. Or, get a higher mark in school than the boy next door. . . . It's only natural.

Later on, you want him to stand at the head of his class in the hardest of all schools—the University of Living. But, each time, it will be the same tape measure of Life applied to your boy—the measure of a man!

Back of every success must be energy and staying power. Every normal, rightly nourished child has it. The men and women who make things move in the world have it. And this energy, this staying power, springs from a single source: food!

It is by no idle chance that food-wise parents pick Germea for their children. For it is power-food. Nature has made it so! It is rich in energy because it contains "germ," the very life of the wheat. Only 2% of the whole wheat grain contains "germ." But, through the Sperry process of manufacture, Germea has 10%. Five times as much life energy as the whole of the wheat!

And measured by this standard, Germea is the ideal breakfast cereal for men-in-the-making. It is helping to build bodies square and true for countless thousands of children. Is it doing the same for yours?

Behind Their Advertising Is Sincere Service

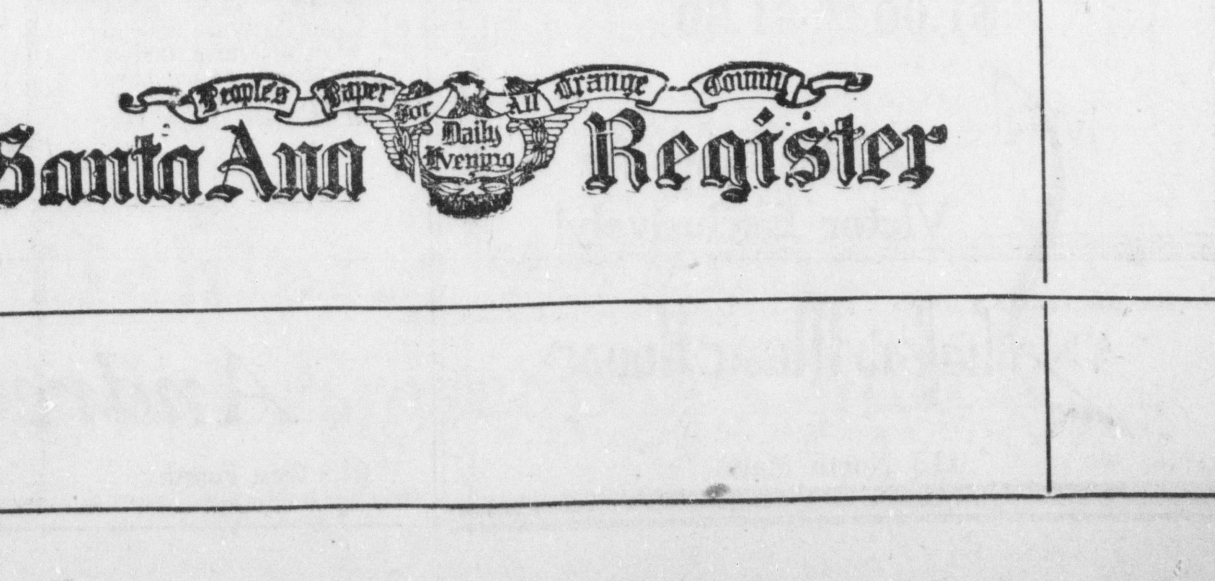

In a very real sense every store and shop in Santa Ana is a public service enterprise. The merchant who supplies you with Clothing, Food, Furniture—everything in fact—prosper only in so far as he subserves his interests to that of his patrons. The business men of Santa Ana, however, are fully aware of their public service functions and show it by such phrases as these which are occurring in greater and greater numbers in advertisements: "Our store is your store." "It is only by fully satisfying you that we can satisfy ourselves."

A vivid understanding of their true position as directors of Public Service Enterprises lies at the foundation of the success built by the merchants who advertise in The SANTA ANA REGISTER.

"BROKEN SILENCE" HELD
CLEAN PLAY

If all the motion pictures produced were like "The Broken Silence," the screen version of James Oliver Curwood's story which closes tonight at the Yost theater, there would be no agitation for censorship or no call for "better pictures." "The Broken Silence" is as clean as the wind that blows over the silent places that James Oliver Curwood knows so well and writes about so entertainingly.

The story tells of the love of Cameron Bruce, an officer in the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, for Jeanne Marat, Jeanne, by the way, is more than ably played by beautiful little Zena Keefe, one of the most talented actresses before the camera today, while the role of Bruce is in the capable hands of Robert Elliott. The balance of the cast includes J. Barney Sherry, known for his work in many Marshall Neilan productions, Gypsy O'Brien, whose dark beauty vividly animates the role of Marie Beauvais, Roy Gordon, and a truly remarkable child player, Master Joseph DePew.

We want to say in conclusion that we strongly recommend "The Broken Silence" to your attention. We consider it a really extraordinary picture production and feel confident that after seeing it you will agree with us.

BILL AT TEMPLE

The Marshall Neilan picture, "The Eternal Three," is now the feature at the Temple theater. According to reports, Neilan and the Goldwyn Company have added another screen success to their list in this photoplay.

There is an excellent cast, including Hobart Bosworth, Claire Windsor, Raymond Griffith, Bessie Love, Tom Gallery, William Norris, Helen Lynch and others.

The story, which was written by Neilan himself, is about a noble surgeon who is cruelly hurt by the ingratitude of others. In fact, his adopted son (Raymond Griffith) seeks to steal his beautiful young wife (Claire Windsor).

No expense was spared by Goldwyn to make this picture as great a photoplay as "The Stranger's Banquet," "Bob Hampton of Placer" and other Neilan productions which have made him at thirty-one an outstanding figure in the movies.

WONDERFUL CAST
SEEN IN "THE FOG"

Nathan Forge, as played by Cullen Landis in "The Fog," at the Princess tonight, is just such a youth as Kipling must have had in mind when he wrote "It"—one who could meet every emergency. And there were plenty of things to stand up against—a scheming, hypocritical father, poverty, blasted love affairs, disillusionment and misrepresentations that kept the sensitive boy in a maze of fog until he found the ideal of which he dreamed. Nathan Forge is one of the best character studies we have ever seen on the screen, and he is portrayed by Cullen Landis with fine sympathy and restraint.

Mildred Harris gives a beautiful interpretation of a difficult role as Madeline Theddon, the girl whose love was the light that pierced through the fog of Nathan's life and brought him happiness.

The whole cast was selected with rare judgment. Each player in this amazingly fascinating photoplay lives his part and the result is a co-ordination of the highest types of screen acting. The cast includes Louise Fazenda, Ethel Wales, Louise Dresser, Marjorie Prevost, Ann May, Ralph Lewis, David Butler, Frank Currier and Edward Phillips.

Report Santa Monica
Woman Lost at Sea

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—Mrs. Hope Murchey, of Santa Monica, prominent social service worker, is missing. It was learned from cable dispatches from Honolulu stating that Mrs. Murchey leaped or fell overboard from the steamship City of Los Angeles November 5.

Mrs. Murchey was a member of a local Chamber of Commerce excursion.

"THREE WISE FOOLS" ON WEST END SCREEN.

"Three Wise Fools," fashioned from the successful stage play by Austin Strong is now showing at the West End theater. This comedy-drama had a three-years' run on the speaking stage. The screen version sets before the eye several important scenes that were just hinted at, or which too place off-stage, in the play version. One is a spectacular jailbreak in which the heroine's father escapes with two other convicts who had staged the flight. The jail delivery, by armored motor-car, is one of the most exciting sequences which we have recently seen.

The characters in the story have the feeling of reality and charm which they had in the spoken play. Eleanor Boardman, fresh from her triumph in "Souls for Sale," plays the leading feminine role with exquisite charm and understanding. Claude Gillingwater, who acted the role of Finley in the stage version, has the same role in the photoplay and plays it so well that screen fans should see to it he is never allowed to stop acting for the films.

He is one of the "three wise fools;" the other two are veterans of the stage, William H. Crane, and Aley Francis. They enlist the sympathies for the three old cronies who agree to take charge of the daughter of the woman they had loved in vain in their youth. John Sainpolis as the girl's father, falsely imprisoned for forgery, and William Haines as her lover, help the others to make "Three Wise Fools" as living, breathing screen masterpiece. Minor roles are excellently cared for by Brinsley Shaw, Fred Esmel-

PARTY OF FOUR
BEACH PEOPLE IS ARRESTED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 13.—R. J. Saunders, said to be the proprietor of a gambling resort of East Walnut avenue, was arrested last night in a raid upon his place by local officers.

Officers C. Stewart, J. Bannister and W. Stanton closed in on the place early in the evening, arresting Saunders, Claud Bright, D. W. Stewart, and Miss Rasmie Combs in connection with the raid.

The three men were lodged in the local jail pending trial. Miss Combs was released on $25 bail. The men members of the party will probably be heard before Judge C. W. Warner's court this morning.

W. M. S. Jackson of this city was arrested last night by Officer Ray Bradford. He is charged with intoxication.

The Pictorial Day

GREAT BIBLE CLASS SALUTES FLAG—Thirty-five thousand people gathered in attendance at the open air Bible class in Lincoln Park, Long Beach, Sunday, joined in prayer and then recited the oath of allegiance. Patriotic songs and other exercises were held in observance of Armistice Day. This is the largest Bible class in the West.

—Kadel & Herbert, Through CVNS.

ENLIGHTENED FARMERS—Experiments show that plants and flowers can be put to sleep and awakened by electric light. It has been shown that they also grow under the artificial light as readily as under the sun's rays. Cheap hydro-electric power is essential.

NOT UNIONIZED—As carpenters, Esther Haynor and Katherine Walsh, Pacoima, Cal., work about fourteen hours daily in building their own little home. Result: House nearly completed in three days.

ONLY FOOLING GUS—A picture of the most remarkable play in the Trojan-Bear game. Photo shows Don Nichols, Bear halfback, recovering himself and on his way to California's first touchdown after receiving a pass from Bill Blewett. The Trojans thought Bill was going to kick—but that came in the surprise feature of the play. Otto Anderson is bearing down on Nichols.

HEROES HONORED SUNDAY—More than 6000 people witnessed the unveiling of this memorial statue at Pomona on Armistice Day. It commands a position in Garfield Park. The statue expresses service not alone in war, but in days of peace as well. Burt Johnson of New York is the sculptor. It honors selective service men of selective service district No. 2, comprising the San Gabriel valley.

—Underwood & Underwood, Through CVNS.

NEW TYPE POSTAL PLANE—For western service. Lands at low speed and carries a heavy load. The special wings where the strut brace wires are gives it a greater carrying capacity. It won honors at the St. Louis meet.

BRAVE AND DARING FIREMEN—John Pizzo, 16, three feet tall in his socks, and William Temple, 17, six feet four inches from the ground up, are learning to be fire "laddies." Captain Calderwood of the Los Angeles fire department is acting as drillmaster. They drill daily.

—Underwood & Underwood, Through CVNS.

MONEY NO OBJECT—Godfrey S. Rockefeller, son of the late William G. Rockefeller and grand-nephew of John D., is a $20 a week clerk in an Albany, N. Y., bank. With his bride, nee Miss Helen Gratz of St. Louis, he occupies a modest apartment. She does all the housework.

MAIL EARLY—This is the first commandment of all Southern California Postmasters to Christmas givers. Here Postmaster O'Brien of Los Angeles is demonstrating how the "boys" carry the sack.

—Underwood & Underwood, Through CVNS.

FOR THE WEST—David W. Davis, former governor of Idaho, who has been named head of the Federal Reclamation Service. He is about to announce a southwestern program.

—Underwood & Underwood, Through CVNS.

JAPAN'S FUTURE EMPRESS—Princess Nagako Kuni, betrothed to the Crown Prince Regent Hirohito, is acquiring European culture as rapidly as possible without leaving Japan.

—Underwood & Underwood, Through CVNS.

EVENING SALUTATION

LIFE is made up, not of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things, in which smiles and kindnesses, and small obligations, given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart, and secure comfort.

—Sir Humphrey Davy.

CONGRATULATIONS, ORANGE

Congratulations from all Orange county are extended today to Orange, following yesterday's successful Armistice day celebration.

Measured by approbation, by the careful manner in which every detail was carried out and by the high order of excellence that marked every feature of the program, the day stands out pre-eminent.

The historical pageant included in the parade was wonderful.

We can all agree with the declaration yesterday, of Joseph F. Collins, state commander of the American Legion, that nothing finer was produced anywhere in the United States in an Armistice day celebration than was produced at Orange. With organization from all over the county co-operating in carrying out the carefully thought-out plans made by Major Harry G. Upham, the story of America as told by the floats was indeed effective and gratifying.

Orange is well known as a city of enterprise and achievement. What it does it does well. With its plaza, its tree-lined, orderly streets, Orange is well endowed to play the host to a great crowd, and yesterday Orange was host par excellence.

INDICATION OF GROWTH

A city that is hoping and yearning for a decisive growth that does not come is wont to seize upon slender straws that indicate the longed-for breeze. Doubtless there was a time when Santa Ana seized upon the slender straws. Today, however, the straws are stronger than twigs and more numerous than the straws in a mighty forkful of hay.

Today, the Santa Ana post office supplied another indication of the city's development. It had already been pointed out that the postal receipts of the Santa Ana office during 1923 would read a total well beyond $120,000, possibly $125,000—last year's total was $103,000. Today comes the announcement that the post office is extending its free delivery service to areas here and there all over the city. Since the rules of the post office require that an area in order to be given free city delivery must have fifty per cent of the lots built upon and must have concrete sidewalks, it is easy to discern that the expansion of delivery service means that Santa Ana has been growing.

No one who lives in Santa Ana has any question about the fact that Santa Ana is growing, but even so most of us fail to realize that the expansion is as great as it is. One must get into an automobile and travel about, up one street and down another, in every portion of the city in order to come to a realization of the extent of the Santa Ana that is ours today and that we are today making into the Santa Ana of tomorrow.

INVESTIGATING SUGAR PRICES

The tariff commission on January 15 will begin hearings as a part of its inquiry into the effect, if any, of tariff duties on the price of sugar to the American consumer.

Investigators for the commission have about completed their field work of gathering production cost information, which, together with information to be obtained at the hearings in January, is expected to provide the commission with incontrovertible facts on the subject. The inquiry was begun after charges had been made that the tariff duties of 1.76 cents a pound on sugar imported from Cuba and 2.20 cents on imports from other countries had resulted in exorbitant prices. The investigation at first dealt only with beet sugar, but later was broadened to include cane sugar.

Records of producers and manufacturers in Cuba, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Louisiana, Colorado, California, including the plants in Orange county, and in Michigan, and of sugar concerns along the Eastern seaboard, have been examined by commission experts, who have completed their work in Cuba, Hawaii and Porto Rico. Field work is nearly finished in Louisiana and Michigan, and satisfactory progress, the commission reports, has been made in the West, and in the examination of the records of New York and Philadelphia firms.

The question is one of tremendous importance to the sugar beet growers of Orange county. For several years the growers suffered losses; this year, even with the tariff, the profit to the grower—the grower's compensation is determined by the price received by the factory for its sugar—is a strong argument against lowering the tariff on sugar.

A WINDSHIELD WARNING

In the court room in Cincinnati where speeders, reckless drivers and traffic violators are tried, there hangs a large sign which carries a warning against the misuse of automobiles.

On one side, under the heading "Causes", are plainly printed the words, "Ignorance", "Carelessness", "Drunkness". On the other side, under "Effects", are the words, "Pain", "Misery", "Death". In the center is a space reserved for recording "Deaths to Date". The number stood recently at 102. It is changed every time a victim is added to the list.

The driver who is brought into court for having produced one of those effects has perhaps already learned his lesson and will be careful in the future. It is the fresh crop of careless drivers who have had narrow escapes, but whose bad accident is still to come, who need the warning. Small copies of that court room sign might be very useful pasted on the windshield of every newly purchased car.

STAGE DEFLATION

The confirmed movie-goer, looking at the huge, ornate and costly moving picture "palaces" that have replaced the little five-cent theaters of the early days of the film play, may wonder just how deflation in the industry is going to turn out. The general impression appears to be that it's all very much for the best.

And in addition to this readjustment in one of the entertainment industries or professions, David Belasco tells us that something similar is to be expected in the realm of the legitimate stage.

"While there are no such salaries in the legitimate theatrical business," he says, "there is just as much or more reason for deflation there, too. We have not the selling facilities that they have in the screen world and our overhead and chances for failure are much greater. It will not be long before there will be concerted movement, therefore, among theatrical producers to cut down some of the unwarranted salaries that are now being paid certain stars in the legitimate profession."

It ought to be a grand and glorious outlook for the much abused public. Better shows at more reasonable prices will be very welcome. And the funny thing about it will be that producers in both fields are likely to find out to their own surprise that they will gain rather than lose in the long run as a result of this deflation, if they really deflate.

From Plant Distribution

Last spring the Redlands Horticultural Society, acting largely upon the initiative and through the activity of Clarence G. White, caused to be distributed through the public schools large numbers of roots, bulbs and slips of plants. The idea was that the school children should be taught the value and the delight of growing beautiful flowers and the beauty of the physical city thus be added to, while an important branch of culture should be stimulated in youthful minds.

The visitors to the Fall Flower Show will see today or tomorrow, a small part of the result. The schools were asked to make displays, as usual, and the number and quantity of exhibits which came in almost swamped the management of the show. Although a depth of fifty feet was added to the exhibit space, yet the school display reaches well up toward the front, on all of one side of the arcade, and many of the offerings had to be denied space. When to this display is added the thought that only a small part of the result of the distribution was brought to the show, some idea of the extent of the plantings of the young people can be had. Prof. Latham, head of the Junior High School, asked of his pupils who brought much of the exhibit, what proportion of them used exclusively the plants distributed in the spring. In answer three-fourths of the hands went up.

The Society, and Mr. White in particular, may rest happy in the reflection that their idea was proved a worthy one, and that the young people of Redlands responded splendidly, the result in every way more than justifying the effort.

Golden Rule Sunday

Put down on your calendar a memo. for Sunday, December 2. That is designated "Golden Rule Sunday." The American people are urged to forego dinner on that day—to fast one meal, and to contribute the cost of this one meal toward relieving the hunger of the parentless refugee children of Greece, Armenia, Syria and Palestine. President Coolidge approves this "Golden Rule Sunday" plan. Fourteen nations of Europe will co-operate in the project to relieve the acute distress.

Surely in this land of superlative abundance—in this land of overeating, on Sunday, December 2, just three days after bounteous Thanksgiving feasts, the people can give up one meal and give the cost of that meal to provide food for boys and girls who have naught to eat except what philanthropy gives them.

It would be a good thing for every American to observe this one-meal fast for selfish reasons, if no other. For it would promote good health. Americans as a rule, overeat. A one-meal fast, one or more days a week—better still, the elimination of one meal every day—would be conducive to health and longevity. It would be a good thing, therefore, for Americans, in the extreme of their plentifulness, to forego a meal and to give toward feeding boys and girls in the extreme of destitution.

A True Scientist

A remarkable man was the late Charles P. Steinmetz, in more than his genius. His simple manner of life was as rare as his mental brilliancy. This man, who might have commanded a great fortune, refused even a salary of any size. All he asked from the corporation that employed him was a drawing account, to take care of his laboratory requirements and his personal wants.

He probably lived as cheaply as many a workman in his shop. He rode in a street car. He paid little attention to food or clothing. He never wore an overcoat, and wore a hat only in winter. His only personal indulgence was tobacco—long, queer-shaped cigars, made to yield much smoke and little nicotine. His only household pet was a gila monster; his favorite plant was the cactus, in these odd freaks of nature, perhaps, the shaggy, weak-eyed little dwarf with the enormous head may have fancied an outward likeness to himself, not in the chilly, aloof manner of a Newton or a Darwin, but in a continual struggle to place his knowledge at the practical service of mankind.

It was a very unusual spectacle in this generation —a man of vast ability, morning, profit, luxury and power and devoting his life to disinterested human service. There may be more like him hereafter, when our competitive struggle grows less bitter.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

PEACE OF BODY

A preacher driving home his point said, "You can't expect to get peace in your soul by inactivity. Peace, tranquility, comes from activity."

That saying is even as true about that body of yours. You can't expect to get the peace that comes to all parts of a healthy body by not doing anything. You know that activity of all the processes spells health, and health is peace of body.

An inactive heart or lungs, doing just enough to keep you alive, means disaster when a strain comes. You sit at a desk all day, your liver is inactive, the bile becomes stagnant. The intestine requires that bile because it takes care of poisonous matters, helps digest the fats, and actually stimulates the intestine to do its work. And so you don't have rest of body with the constipation and headaches which will naturally follow from the inactivity of your liver.

Your kidneys become clogged, and you have pain and distress. Lungs and heart that are asked to do only the smallest amount of work necessary to keep you alive are not doing much.

They are of large size, meant to supply a good-sized animal, the said animal being supposed to do enough work to have need of such large organs.

Their very inactivity is their danger. Heart and lungs that are called on daily to supply blood, pure blood, in large amounts to the most distant parts of the body, through their very activity are going to give you peace as far as they are concerned, because you'll never know you possess them.

Your entire muscular system was meant for intense activity. An unused muscle can become practically a useless, a paralyzed muscle in a short time, if it be kept absolutely motionless. Joints stiffen and you become old if you don't use them.

The actual use of your muscles by walking, working, playing, exercising, creates the desire for food, which in turn supplies the energy that keeps all parts of the body in working order.

The idea of religion is that a man works out his own salvation by activity in all good works. In this manner he secures peace in his soul.

Similarly then there is no royal road to peace—health—of body, except in the same way. Activity of all the processes.

And the activity of all the processes can be stimulated in only one way.

That is by daily exercise of the body in the form of work or play.

America's Favorite Songs

OLD BLACK JOE

Gone are the days
When my heart was young and gay,
Gone are my friends
From the cotton fields away,
Gone from the earth
To a better land, I know.
I hear their gentle voices calling,
"Old Black Joe!"

I'm coming, I'm coming,
For my head is bending low;
I hear their gentle voices calling,
"Old Black Joe!"

Why do I weep
When my heart should feel no pain,
Why do I sigh
That my friends come not again,
Grieving for forms
Now departed long ago?
I hear their gentle voices calling,
"Old Black Joe!"

Where are the hearts
Once so happy and so free;
The children so dear,
That I held upon my knee?
Gone to the shore
Where my soul has long'd to go,
I hear their gentle voices calling,
"Old Black Joe!"

"Old Black Joe," composed by Stephen C. Foster nine years after his "Old Folks at Home," represents a transition in the creative tendencies of its composer.

Many of Foster's earlier songs were written for the use of minstrel troupes. For that purpose they were written largely in negro dialect. Foster's intention was to omit his name on his "Ethiopian" songs, as he called them, as he had omitted his name from "Old Folks at Home."

He concluded later, however, to reinstate his name on his songs and to "pursue the Ethiopian business without fear or shame, and lend my energies to making the business live."

Foster's intention to establish himself as the "best Ethiopian song writer" was never carried out. In 1860 he wrote three negro songs, which were the last of the type composed by him. Two of them were in the original style of minstrel jingle, but the third "Old Black Joe," has taken its place among the beloved songs of the people.

In this song Foster has forsaken the crude dialect of the earlier songs. Although the words of "Old Black Joe" are supposed to be spoken by a negro, the language is that of the white man. Like the other great Foster favorites, the mood of this song is one of gentle melancholy and the music is of wistful tenderness.

Time to Smile

THE SILVER LINING

"Bloody," said the automobile tire; and the father of the family leaped out and began putting on a new one. It was an old-fashioned clincher tire, and a great deal of forceful language was spilled in the process of putting on the spare.

"I don't see why you have to use all that bad line of talk," said the wife reproachfully. "It isn't the worst possible thing that could have happened. You never see the good in things."

"What's good in this?" friend husband snapped tersely.

Why, the baby nearly cackled his little head off when the tire went 'bang.'

IT BURNED UP THE TRACK

Johnson was the proud father of a track star in a negro college. One time during the track season he went to witness his son perform and upon his return to his little hamlet he was questioned as to the merits of the athletes by the deacon. "Does you say they has hot races down there?" queried the reverend personage.

Johnson looked at his inquirer for a moment before he spoke. "Hot race?" he said. "Why man, they run their races in 'heats.' An' after they was all through I walked down an' took a look at the track, an' Lawd, they'd burned it to cinders. That's how hot the races was."—Judge.

A Newcomer Makes Suggestions

Editor Register—May a newcomer to Santa Ana rise and make a few remarks?

There's a question in my mind as to whether or not Santa Ana is doing everything it could do in attracting to this city a good percentage of the tens of thousands of tourists who are coming to Southern California. Of course, the city's auto park is a splendid thing and helps in bringing tourists here, but there are a number of things which might be done, but which are not being done.

First—Wouldn't it be a good idea for the city or the Chamber of Commerce to get out some windshield stickers boosting Santa Ana as "Nature's Prolific Wonderland," or something like that, and get local motorists and tourists to paste these on their windshields? The stickers could be distributed to local people and to newcomers by the city's filling stations. And by getting a lot of these stickers used; in this way the city would secure a great amount of valuable advertising.

Second—The city wants newcomers, but outside of the auto camp, what does it do to make newcomers feel wholly at home here? Wouldn't it be a good plan to have a welcome committee composed of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club, Kiwanis club, etc., whose duty it would be to call on newcomers and welcome them to the city and help to make them feel at home and get them located in churches, etc.?

The names of newcomers could be easily secured. The Register might run a coupon every other day or weekly, on which there would be space for newcomers to register their names and temporary addresses, and on which they could specify any particular sort of information or help they wanted and the signers might then be asked to send these to The Register or the Chamber of Commerce.

Also, cards similar to such a coupon could be printed up and given to the filling stations with requests that the attendants get all tourists to sign them up.

And to make sure that the filling station attendants did this, a prize of some sort might be offered each month to the filling station attendant turning in the greatest number of signed cards to The Register or the Chamber of Commerce.

Third—The state picnics and home-town picnics held in Los Angeles do as much to advertise that city and popularize it with the folks back east as anything else. And these picnics, too, have the effect of bringing the newcomers together, making them acquainted and making them feel more at home in their new environment.

Surely Santa Ana could stage some similar affairs. There might be a monthly picnic for all newcomers at which all of the people settling in Santa Ana during the previous month would be requested to register so that their names and former addresses could be printed in The Register.

Or there could be picnics from time to time for newcomers from various adjacent groups of states—

such as the Pacific Northwest, New England states, etc.

These picnics could be engineered by the city's welcome committee, and the committee could be on hand at all of these events to get acquainted with the newcomers and help to make them acquainted with each other.

Fourth—Perhaps it wouldn't be feasible, but it might be a good plan to have some central place in the city designated as a "get acquainted park," or something like that. For instance, there could be such a place at Birch park. Here there could be a registration booth for newcomers to sign their names and former addresses and there could be places to play horseshoes, etc., such as there are in Long Beach and Los Angeles. Then such names and addresses as were registered in the book provided for the purpose could be printed in The Register and the people could be called on by neighbors, etc.

Undoubtedly one of the big attractions to newcomers is the fact that there are so many play places in California cities. Santa Ana, it seems, at least to one newcomer, is rather lacking in such places, and the establishment of public horseshoe and croquet play places would help greatly in popularizing the city.

Santa Ana is, of course, very hospitable and friendly and wants to do everything possible to bring more easterners here. So wouldn't it be a good plan more thoroughly to give publicity to its hospitality and friendliness and cash in on these things to the limit, along the ways indicated in this letter and along all other ways that might suggest themselves? The California cities which make the strongest appeals to the easterners who are seeking warmer homes are the ones that are going to grow the fastest and become the biggest.

FRANK H. WILLIAMS,

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 17—THE TWINS MEET MR. ARMADILLO

Away down in Dixie Land, the Twins came upon an object that looked something like a war-tank, and something like a suit of iron armor that knights of old used to wear in battle. Only it wasn't bigger than a parcel-post package.
